LOANS TO GET COSTLIER AS BANKS HIKE LENDING RATES

EMIs set to go up for borrowers as major lenders have revised their marginal cost of funds based lending rate (MCLR)

SBI RAISES MCLR BY 0.1%, OTHERS BY 0.05%

The State Bank of India has revised its MCLR by 0.1% across tenors. Other lenders like the Bank of Baroda (BoB), Axis Bank and Kotak Mahindra Bank have hiked their MCLR by 0.05% each. SBI's new MCLR for one-year tenure stands at 7.1% while that of BoB is 7.35%. The revised rate for both Axis Bank and Kotak Mahindra Bank is 7.4% | P12

MORE BANKS LIKELY TO FOLLOW SUIT

- MCLR is the lowest interest rate at which banks can lend money
- Following an RBI directive in 2019, floating-rate retail loans must be linked to an external benchmark and not MCLR
- The latest lending rate hike by large lenders, which comes after a gap of three years, is likely to be followed by others

3 wise netas to take PK call

While Digvijaya, Antony were lukewarm on '24 strategy paper, Jairam was upbeat

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

CONGRESS president Sonia Gandhi has formed a three-member committee comprising party veterans A K Antony, Ambika Soni and Mallikarjun Kharge to examine election strategist Prashant Kishor's strategy paper for contesting the 2024 Lok Sabha elections. The committee has been asked to submit its report in a week.

Kishor had made a three-hour presentation at Congress president Sonia Gandhi's residence on April 16. It was attended by former Congress president Rahul Gandhi, general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, and senior leaders A K Antony, Ambika Soni, Mallikarjun Kharge, Digvijaya Singh, Mukul Wasnik, K C Venugopal, Jairam Ramesh and Ajay Maken, besides the Congress president.

In the presentation, Kishor outlined the mistakes the party has been making and presented an alternative plan that could help the party succeed at the hustings.

Among his suggestions was to focus party resources on winnable seats, which he said were only 370 out of Lok Sabha's total strength of 543.

A K Antony, Mallikarjun Kharge, Ambika Soni

Kharge puts Kishor in a spot

Kishor faced an awkward moment when he referred to media reports about his appointment as Congress general secretary, and said he is not hankering after any party position. Kharge cut him off and said, "PK, didn't you come to me asking me to recommend you to be made Congress vice-president?"

He said Congress is a great product which lacks proper marketing. He was particularly critical of the party's media strategy. He brushed aside the rising communal polarisation as an insignificant issue and said it could be countered by galvanising and empowering workers at the booth level. He said the party should fight on its own in Uttar Pradesh and Bihar, and enter into alliance in states like Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, West Bengal and Maharashtra.

After the presentation, Sonia asked the leaders about their opinion on the presentation. Sources said Digvijaya Singh and A K Antony did not appear very impressed by the proposal. Singh said this is exactly what the party had said after its last two chintan shivirs at Pachmarhi and Shimla. Antony said most of the points mentioned in the proposal were similar to those he had mentioned in his report after the party's loss in 2014.

The response of others was muted. But Jairam Ramesh was full of praise for the ideas presented by Kishor and said they were worth trying.

After the meeting, Congress leaders said it was now certain that Kishor would join the party. He may, however, not get the number two slot in the party. Going by what Kharge said during the meeting and what key party functionaries feel, Kishor had been bargaining for a post next only to the Congress president. He is reportedly keen on reporting only to the Congress president.

Minister, Swamiji fight over '30% cut'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru/ Gadag

ALLEGATIONS and counter-allegations between a religious head and a minister are exposing what appear to be cracks between mutts and the BJP-led state government over the issue of corruption which the opposition Congress has already taken up to increase the heat on the ruling dispensation ahead of the polls.

PWD Minister CC Patil on Tuesday took on Shirahatti Jagadguru Dingaleshwara Swamiji, who is the Veerashaiva-Lingayat religious head of Balehosuru Mutt Peetha in Gadag district, over the latter's allegation that the state government charges "30 per cent commission" for grants to the mutts. Patil said the seer had three criminal cases against him and questioned the latter's integrity as a religious head. P4

Quran will be part of moral education: Min

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

MORAL science will be part of the curriculum in schools from this academic year, and it will not be restricted to one particular religion. The essence of all religions, including from Panchatantra, Ramayana, Mahabharatha, Bhagavad Gita, Quran and others, will be part of moral studies.

A committee will decide the curriculum and there will be no exams for the subject, said Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh said here on Tuesday.

"Though there is no demand from madrasas or the minority community, parents have asked us to provide regular education to madrasa students, like in other schools, so that they can compete with other children, take professional courses and competitive exams," he said.

Preparatory classes, Kalika Chetharike that will focus on teaching students through song and dance, will begin on May 16 to improve the quality of learning among children which dropped during the pandemic. Regular classes will begin on June 1 and students will have less homework as per NEP, Nagesh added.

Model schools will be set up by merging multiple schools in a village or village panchayat to improve the quality of education. There are 2,300 such schools in the state and some of them have already started functioning in Ramanagar district, he said.

On providing stitched uniforms to government school students, he said the karnataka High Court has directed the government to give at least the second set stitched. After calling for tenders, the price has reduced to ₹182 per uniform, the minister said.

U.P. SHOCKER

SC boy forced to lick feet of upper caste man

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

IN a shocking incident, a Class 10 student belonging to the Scheduled Caste category was assaulted and forced to lick the feet of an upper caste person in Rae Bareli district of central UP recently.

The crime had taken place on April 10 but it came to light when a video of the assault went viral on social media. Seven persons, including a minor, were arrested following the student's complaint.

In the video, the teenager is seen being forced to sit on the ground with hands on his ears while the perpetrators were on their motorcycles. One of the men asks the boy to spell out 'Thakur' while insulting him with a caste slur. The accused persons are heard threatening the victim, trembling with fear, not to repeat his 'mistake' again. They are also seen accusing the victim of selling cannabis.

According to police officials, the main accused is a minor, who was sent to juvenile correction home.

Local sources said the student lives with his widowed mother. The incident happened when the boy had gone to collect the wages of his mother, who works in some of the accused persons' fields. This enraged the attackers, who grabbed the boy, assaulted and abused him.

Security breach as Pak spook found in Army officers' social media group

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INTELLIGENCE agencies, including Military Intelligence, have detected a cyber security breach as a phone number of foreign origin was shockingly found as part of a social media group that had serving Indian Army officers. "A Pakistan intelligence operative's number has been found in a WhatsApp group that included our serving personnel," a source confirmed, adding an inquiry is on to ascertain the extent of the breach.

That Chinese and Pakistan intelligence agencies have been trying hard to penetrate Indian social media groups is well known. This paper had reported earlier that the Army has instructed all officers to stay off any social media groups formed by civilians or people whose identity cannot be verified.

The instruction issued by the Directorate General of Military Operations said, "No Army personnel is permitted to be part of any large group(s) on internet-based messenger, chat, email services. Only one-to-one messages are permitted. However, within a close-knit group wherein members or subscribers are 'only serving personnel' known to each other and whose credentials can be ascertained, it is allowed."

Over 6L students to write II PU exams from April 22

'New valuation centres will be set up in Tumakuru, Hassan, Ballari'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PRE University Board is all set to hold the second year PUC exams from April 22 to May 18. As many as 6,84,255 students including 6,00,519 regular students, 61,808 repeaters, 21,928 private students and 2,212 physically challenged children have enrolled for the exams, said minister for primary and secondary education minister BC Nagesh on Tuesday.

He said that the exams between 10.15 am and 1.30pm will be held across 5,241 centres including 1,231 government PU colleges, 797 aided, 3,040 unaided, 159 composite and 14 corporation PU colleges. Bengaluru south district will have the highest number of exam centres at 83, while the lowest will be in Ramanagar district (13).

Like every year, highest number of students (58,836) have enrolled from Bengaluru south and lowest number of students (6,048) from Kodagu district. As many as 3,46,936 boys and 3,37,319 girls will appear for exams. There have been almost equal number of students appearing for exams in all three faculties including 2,45,519 in Commerce, 2,28,167 in Arts, and 2,10,569 in Science.

Students appearing for exams can travel for free in KSRTC buses on exam days by showing their hall tickets, and Covid-appropriate behaviour must be followed
BC Nagesh, Minister, Primary and Secondary Education

Evaluation will be done across 81 centres. New valuation centres will be set up in Tumkur, Hassan and Ballari districts, Nagesh said.

Six meetings have been held with education department officers and others since March 26, he said, adding that the revised time table issued on April 6 should be followed. Students appearing for exams can travel for free in KSRTC buses on exam days by showing their hall tickets, and Covid-appropriate behaviour must be followed. For any exam related query students can contact 080-23080864.

I appeal to students to take second PU exams in a relaxed manner. The question pattern of main exams will be like that of preparatory exams and model papers. It will be student-friendly exam like SSLC exams. Don't have any fear. We have prepared students for eight months. I also urge parents encourage the children and instill confidence.

– BC Nagesh, Minister, Primary and Secondary Education

'Hijab banned during exams'

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

ALTHOUGH uniform is not compulsory for students of those colleges where college development have not prescribed uniforms for second PU exams, none are allowed to wear any religious attires like hijab.

With the government coming up with its circular regarding barring hijabs for students taking exams following high court orders, so far, they are yet to receive any special appeals for permission to wear them, said Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh.

Though there has not been any direction from the education department for teachers/lecturers against wearing religious attires, the educational institution managements have appealed to them not to wear them on moral grounds.

Teachers who insist to wear them will be relieved from exam duty, Nagesh said, adding that 99 per cent of the teachers are cooperating except for one or two instances.

For those students who miss the exams for wearing hijabs will not be given special option and have to appear for supplementary exams like any other student, Nagesh announced.

Poor drainage leads to water-logging in Kempegowda Layout, allottees irked

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE stagnant water in the Storm Water Drains (SWD) spread across the Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout (NPKL) that are overflowing into the sites around is making allottees see red. The heavy rains last week have triggered water-logging inside the Layout.

The fundamental reason Sham Jujare S, a site allottee, and member of the NPKL Progressive Front, told TNIE that all the blocks need to be interlinked and the water should be diverted towards the lakes in the Layout.

Dr Padma Prasad, also from the same group, said, "The numerous pockets of low-lying areas, an incomplete rainwater drainage system coupled with absence of end-to-end connectivity are the reasons for the waterlogging."

BS Manjunath, who has been allotted site number 4239 in the fourth block, said, "The retaining walls of the SWD have been left incomplete. The problem is acute in the second and fourth blocks. What is worrying is water seeping into the ground where our sites are located and this would make the foundation of our structures weak in future."

Kempanna M N, another allottee in this block, said that there were 80 sites in the F section of the fourth Block which are severely affected as they are in a low-lying area. The BDA official in-charge of the Layout did not respond to repeated calls.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A day after a garbage truck ran over a bank employee, killing her, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said that he will hold a meeting with transport and traffic police department to bolster the safety measures on roads and also ensuere sufficient medians.

Speaking to media on the issue of vehicle condition, Gupta said all vehicles should have fitness certificate and that Marshals at mustering centre will also check it. He said that contracts must ensure that all vehicles have fitness certificate. In case of violation, strong action will be taken, he said.

He said even as drivers are well trained, this issue is untoward and it will be investigated. Tenders for new vehicles are also being called. He assured that compensation will be given to the family of the deceased after discussion with the government. On the issue of clearing of storm water drains, Gupta said, "I was told that it was cleared in the morning, but it does not look like so. On emergency basis it has been ordered to clear and redo the drain construction".

6,500 smart classrooms by 2023

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

DEPARTMENT of Collegiate and Technical Education commissioner Pradeep P said 2,500 smart classrooms have been set up in government colleges over the last year with 6,500 to be converted by 2022-23.

Though the Karnataka Learning Management System (LMS) had been implemented a year ago, some aspects of it are yet to be implemented, he said. When the implementation concludes, students will have access to their syllabus and lessons through the LMS website and mobile app.

Pradeep said 2,500 classroms have been converted to smart classrooms over the last year. He said attendance, curriculum, classes, assignments (both online and offline), libraries and doubt forums will be available for students through LMS web portal and app.

He said digitisation will aid teachers and students rather than replace teachers and offline classrooms.

Speaking on attendance with digitisation, Karnataka State Higher Education Council vice-chairman, Prof B Thimme Gowda also hinted that the UGC might drop attendance requirements. This is also in line with a previous UGC announcement of allowing universities to set their own attendance policies with the implementation of simultaneous degrees under NEP. "This is the first by any state. We are compiling material from top-level teachers through the portal and over time, it will get better," he said.

Pradeep also said that issuing of copies of marks cards and degree certificates will stop soon.

'Some lessons on Tipu to be removed'

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

TIPU Sultan lessons will remain in the school textbooks but only inappropriate parts of it will be removed, said Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh.

"There were two demands especially from Kodagu MLA Appachchu Ranjan. One of the demands was to remove the lessons of Tipu from the curriculum. Second was if the lessons on him are not removed, all his sides should be shown. As of now, only one part is shown. Ranjan has given evidence on how Tipu changed the language of administration from Kannada to Persian, and thereby, caused injustice to Kannada. And he has also shown Tipu's atrocity against the people of the Coorg along with his communication with the British," Nagesh said.

"So we have decided to remove the inappropriate part about Tipu's history from school textbooks. We will not even remove his name as "Mysuru Huli" from textbooks. A Committee which has been formed will decide what should be there and what should be removed about Tipu which will be revealed next week," he said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

20th April : The Sun-Uranus relationship is one of those subtle alignments that blends imaginative possibilities with a sense of energy and enterprise. In other words, it's a fine moment for dreamers, visionaries, mystics, poets and artists. If you count yourself under one of these headings, then you're sure to be doing your best.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Events that took place over the last twenty-four hours, or may even still be happening, may be difficult to understand. This is absolutely fine, for the more effort you put into finding the solutions, the more experience you'll accumulate and the better you'll be prepared in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You have a week or so to say what you think, tell family members what to do and arrange matters at home to your satisfaction. After that, you will become increasingly reluctant to communicate, perhaps because you worry that partners' reactions will not be to your liking.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Don't imagine that you're helpless and incapable. If you're too passive today, fate will step in and you'll probably miss a very valuable opportunity indeed. Flex your muscles at home, and if people you live with know what's best for them, they'll agree with you without hesitation.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may be putting on a show of being terribly confident and outgoing, but any astrologer will tell you that you're holding a lot back. That's no bad thing, for you have to be sure of what you really think before you tell other people how you truly feel.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Slow down and consider your future with care. One way or another, you should be absolutely sure of what's happening before you make your next move. The whole world is knee-deep in banana skins, and if you take too much for granted, you'll be the first to slip.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The overwhelming emphasis in your stars is on the public, professional, financial and social regions of your chart, indicating a predisposition to get involved in whatever's happening, even in activities that you'd normally think are beneath you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
So many planets are encouraging you to excel yourself that I am sure you'll do better than usual. The daily planetary pattern is relatively adventurous, an indication that travel and long-distance plans require spicing up. All I can say is: keep your spirits aloft!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You can make requests, but you can't guarantee that they'll be granted. On balance, nobody is likely to give you the benefit of the doubt. But, then, if they did, you'd have it too easy. The general planetary picture suggests that, if you rise to the challenge now, you'll be all the more successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Personal relationships are a minefield. Other people do require a certain amount of sympathy, but they also need putting straight, and this might be the most important thing you can do for them. Have faith in your own advice, for it's better than you think.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There's no rest for the wicked today, I'm afraid. If you've taken on more than you can handle, then your responsibilities might start to divide and multiply, amoeba style. Can you hang on until tomorrow for help from partners? If you're smart, you may be able to deal with a familiar problem in a revolutionary manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Allow yourself a little more time for pleasure and self-indulgence. A cultural outing may suit, although really it doesn't matter what you do just as long as you enjoy it. Yet you're also in quite a serious mood, partly because you want only the best for partners.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Consider all domestic possibilities and please make plans for the coming months. If you think ahead, you'll be all the more prepared when the time eventually comes to make your move. And do be practical about your latest set of ideas, otherwise the chances will fade.

COVID-19 SURGE LIKELY IN C'MAGALURU, TUMAKURU

12 dists showing rise in R-value; study done by statistical researchers

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

AN early warning system for a surge in Covid cases, developed by researchers from the Indian Statistical Institute (ISI), Bengaluru, has warned that 12 districts of Karnataka are showing an increase in effective reproduction number of Covid-19 cases, and two districts need immediate focus as they will reach 1,500 cases per million population, in the next 46 and 72 days.

The research by Siva Athreya, a probability theorist specialising in statistical physics and population biology, and others in the team have created an early warning system from daily reported cases, and each district's healthcare infrastructure capacity.

The prediction has warned that Chikkamagaluru will reach 1,500 cases per million population in the next 46 days, and Tumakuru in the next 72 days. Explaining the basis of predictions on the website, the researchers said, "From the daily reported cases, a stable early warning system has been created based on each district's health infrastructure capacity. It is assumed that health infrastructure capacity in a district is proportional to its population. Hence, the days taken to reach 50 cases per million population and 1,500 cases per million population, has been taken as markers for healthcare infrastructure capacity."

WORRYING SIGNS

Chikkamagaluru, Tumakuru, Bagalkot, Belagavi, Bengaluru Rural, Bengaluru Urban, Chamarajanagar, Chikkaballapur, Davanagere, Dharwad, Hassan, Kodagu, Mysuru, Yadgir

The aim of this prediction is to provide an early warning to epidemiologists and district authorities. The researchers say the growth rate here is equal to the number of new infections per active infection, per unit time. Which means, the number of cases at the peak is taken as a critical number of cases in the early warning system. This is just another marker for healthcare infrastructure capacity.

"For the current date, we use the model to predict active cases for the next 14 days. If the green curve is shooting upward, then this is an early warning for the district," they said.

As per data, in Chikkamagaluru, the R-value is expected to go up to 2.54, with growth rate of 0.243, and days taken to increase to 1,500 active cases per million population (10 lakh people) is 56. For Tumakuru, the R-value is expected to go up to 1.21 with growth rate of 0.207, and days taken is 49 to reach 1,500 per million population. They have also warned other districts where the R-value is expected to grow. These districts are predicted to reach 1,500 active cases per million population in less than 100 days.

Youth run over by lorry after bike skids on water-logged rd

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

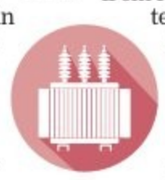
A 22-year-old mechanic was killed and his friend suffered injuries after they were run over by a lorry after their bike skidded at Sampangiramnagar road near Corporation Circle on Monday night due to slippery road. The victim, Mohammed Ali, a resident of Kalasipalayam, was working in an automobile shop. The injured, Mubarak Ahmed, has been admitted to a private hospital and his condition is said to be stable.

According to the police, the mishap occurred at around 12.30 am when the duo was returning from Shivajinagar after shopping. Ahmed lost control of the bike on the water-logged road and the duo fell down. An over-speeding truck ran over them from behind. Wilson Garden traffic police rushed to the spot and shifted Mubarak to a private hospital in Madiwala.

Bescom devises system to keep check on transformers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Keeping public safety in mind, the Bangalore Electricity Supply Company (Bescom) has devised a centralised transformer health monitoring system and isolation of transformer from line fault. This was part of the action initiated to prevent transformers turning into a fire hazard due to a fault in the electricity distribution lines.



In an affidavit filed before the Karnataka High Court with regard to the PIL by Wing Commander GB Athri (retd), seeking direction to shift transformers from footpaths and storm water drains, Bescom stated that a detailed study has been done on the causes of transformers exploding or catching fire, and an action plan has been finalised for prevention.

In the affidavit filed before the division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice SR Krishna Kumar, Bescom Managing Director P Rajendra Cholan stated that the system, once implemented, will be able to determine the state of transformers by continuous data acquisition, monitoring, alerting the field engineer on the status of transformers and isolating the transformer from faults remotely.

Tenders are being finalised to implement the system on a war footing, Cholan stated in the affidavit. Steps have been taken to shift transformers from footpaths and storm water drains. As per schedule, it will shift transformers from footpaths by March 2023, on an average of 210 transformers per month, he stated.

Asian Fab Tech Limited has submitted the schedule for completing work in the given time frame. During the pendency of the writ petition, Bescom has replaced Distribution Transformer Centres (DTCs) on footpaths with Spun Pole Structures, keeping in mind the safety of pedestrians. Bescom has already converted 3,196 transformers in Bengaluru zone to Special Design Transformer Centres by erecting transformers on pre-fabricated structures, he added. The turnkey contract is for Rs 146.83 crore.

Nominated members can't vote in polls for prez in councils: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday dismissed a petition seeking to declare that nominated councilors are entitled to cast their vote in the election for the post of president or vice-president under Section 42(2) of the Karnataka Municipalities Act, 1964.

The court dismissed the petition filed by K Lakshmikanta and three others, who are nominated councilors of Malur Town Municipal Council in Kolar. The court also rejected a prayer by the petitioners to declare that the votes cast by them in the election on December 30, 2021 for the post of Malur Municipal president as valid.

The court said the right to vote is not a fundamental right and therefore, Article 243R (2) (a) which provides that nominated members shall not have right to vote in the meeting of the Council does not violate the basic structure of the Constitution. Article 243R (2) (a) does not suffer from any infirmity.

"The Supreme Court itself while dealing with scope and ambit of Article 243R held that the Constitution itself makes a distinction between elected members and nominated members who play essentially an advisory role. The elected members and nominated members cannot be said to be belonging to the same class and there is no pleading that differentiation between elected and nominated members is either unreasonable or is arbitrary or that it does not rest on any rational basis. In view of this, challenge to the validity of Article 243R (2) (a) that it violates Article 14 of the Constitution of India, fails," it observed.

Hubballi clashes: 10 more detained, arrested shifted to Kalaburagi jail

This after intelligence reports suggest there could be more violence to protest the arrests

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @ Hubballi

THE Hubballi police on Tuesday detained 10 more people in connection with the incident of throwing stones at the Old Hubballi police station on Saturday in which four policemen were injured. The police shifted 88 others arrested in the case from the Hubballi jail to Kalaburagi prison as they had intelligence reports that there could be more violence to protest against their arrest. Hubballi remained peaceful on Tuesday three days after the violence erupted over a social media post. The police, however, continued to hunt for those who threw stones at the police personnel and police vehicles, which were parked on the premises of the Old Hubballi Police Station.

Sources said the 88 arrested were shifted to Kalaburagi in four buses under tight police protection. A Hubballi court on Monday remanded them in judicial custody for two weeks. However, a senior police officer said the accused were shifted to Kalaburagi as the capacity of the Hubballi sub-jail is only 500, and the number of those being arrested for the violence is growing by the day. The police continued to search for a priest who allegedly made a provocative speech after climbing on a police vehicle in front of Old Hubballi Police Station on the day of violence. It is said his speech provoked the mob and it led to the violence. The very next day, he managed to escape from Hubballi and he may have fled to Hyderabad to evade arrest, sources said.

It is alleged that Hubballi-Dharwad City District Congress president Altaf Hallur too climbed the police vehicle along with the priest. But Hallur clarified that he did it only to urge people to maintain peace.

Meanwhile, several videos related to the violence are being circulated on social media. Till Tuesday, 12 cases have been registered in connection with the violence.

Meanwhile, family members of the arrested visited the Old Hubballi Police Station to request the police to release their kin. A few of them even showed medical reports saying the arrested had health issues and urged the police to release them.

CM Basavaraj Bommai takes blessings from an elephant at Sringeri Sri Sharada Peeta on Tuesday

On bulldozing properties

Asked whether his government will bulldoze properties of rioters, like in UP and MP as stated by some of the ministers, Bommai said the action will not be on those lines, but will be as per law. He said that any action should be decided after examining the situation locally. "We will examine the situation here and decide later," the Chief Minister added.

Govt acted swiftly in recent cases: Bommai

ENS @Shivamogga

THE government acted swiftly in recent cases, including the alleged suicide of contactor Santosh Patil, malpractice in PSI recruitment exam, Shivamogga violence and Hubballi riots, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday.

Reacting to opposition charges that he is peddling soft on these cases, he said, "Where have I shown a soft corner? Show me one instance. We immediately registered an FIR in connection with contractor Santosh Patil's suicide and took action with regard to violent incidents in Hubballi and Shivamogga. We arrested culprits who destroyed watermelons of a street vendor in Dharwad and acted swiftly in connection with the alleged malpractice in PSI recruitment exam," he shot back.

On opposition remarks that the BJP government is turning Karnataka into a Ravana Rajya instead of a Rama Rajya, he said the people will define the administration of the state.

Reacting to JDS senior leader HD Kumaraswamy's statement that some innocent youth were arrested in the Hubballi riots case, the CM said, "We have not arrested any innocent person. The arrests are being made based on evidence," he said.

Eminent citizens call out violence against minorities

ENS @ Bengaluru

A group of 300 eminent personalities has written an open letter to the State Government, calling for an end to what they called "state-sponsored targeted violence against Muslims, Dalits and Christians, that can have lasting and adverse consequences''. Listing the various issues and controversies involving minorities, they said, "As part of the steep rise in attacks against Muslims, the Ram Navami festival offered another opportunity to launch militant marches by Hindutva groups in several areas, with swords and trishuls, blaring provocative music and slogans outside mosques and in Muslim-dominated areas during the holy month of Ramzan, and at the time of breaking of fast, often in the presence of local police. This had an all-India character and Karnataka was one of the states chosen for this display of toxic machismo.''

Civic activist Kathyayini Chamaraj, human rights activist Kavita Srivastava, academics Jayati Ghosh and Dr Niranjan Aradhya, medical professional Dr Sylvia Karpagam, scientist Dr Veena Shatrugna, academic Dr Mohan Rao and other have signed the letter. On the caste divisions, the letter said, "Age-old caste practices continue to be maintained and aggravated under the current regime. One the one hand, caste atrocities in the state are on the rise and on the other, basic entitlements such as the post-matric scholarship are being delayed."

''As part of the anti-minority agenda, even Christians have been targeted by the state machinery...," the letter read.

CID INTENSIFIES PROBE INTO PSI EXAM SCANDAL

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI @Kalaburagi

THE Criminal Investigation Department (CID), which is probing allegations of manipulation of answer sheets in the PSI recruitment entrance test at an educational institution here on October 3 last year, has speeded up the investigation.

Sources told TNIE, "CET results for the recruitment of 545 PSI posts were announced and later withheld after the controversy erupted over allegations of manipulation. The CET for 402 PSIs (Civil) posts which was due in January is held up, as it cannot take place until the ongoing probe is over."

CID has formed multiple teams to conduct the probe. The sleuths got some evidence of manipulation of answer sheets at Jnana Ganga Educational Institutions in Kalaburagi, which was one of the examination centres.

Another CID team has issued notices to all the 545 successful candidates who were selected in the exam, and asked them to appear before it on Wednesday. The results have been withheld since the malpractice surfaced.

CID personnel, who arrested six people here in connection with the scandal, have been grilling them intensely as their police custody ends on Wednesday. The court has allowed the investigators to interrogate the accused only from 11 am to 5 pm. CID has finished interrogating the three women accused — Suma, Siddamma and Savitri, who are employees of Jnana Ganga Institutions and were supervisors during the exam. The questioning of three candidates, Arun Patil of Halsultanpur in Kalaburagi taluk, Chetan Nandgaon of Aland and Praveenkumar K of Raichur, is pending. It is learnt that CID may not seek the extension of custody of the three women, but may want a longer custody for the others. So far, eight have been arrested in the case.

CID suspects that BJP leader Divya Hagaragi, the prime accused and secretary of Jnana Ganga institutions, could be hiding in Maharashtra. Her husband Rajesh Hagaragi, who is the president of the institution, has already been arrested.

Cops issue notice to selected candidates

BENGALURU: The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) police have reportedly issued notices to around 50 candidates who have been selected in the provisional list. It is said that these candidates have been summoned for questioning to get more information about the case and to confirm whether any individual indulged in malpractice. The candidates have been asked to appear before the investigation officer for enquiry on Wednesday. The police have asked them to bring the original hall ticket and the candidate's copy of the OME sheet while appearing for enquiry. It is said that there are possibilities that more number of selected candidates may be subjected to questioning as part of the probe.

Seer to restart agitation for '2A' tag

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THRONGS of supporters have started pouring into the Kudalasangama ashram, with pontiff Basava Jaya Mrutyunjaya Swamiji calling for another agitation for the backward '2A' tag, starting Thursday. The Bhratiya Janata Party government in Karnataka, meanwhile, watches the preparations with unease.

It may be recalled that this is their fifth phase of agitation for the '2A' backward reservation tag, where the Panchamsalis and their affiliates, like the Gowda Lingayats, Malai Gowdas, Deeksha Lingayats and others who are an "influential group" in at least 100-plus constituencies across the state, will begin an agitation.

The Panchamsalis and their affiliate groups overwhelmingly supported the BJP in the previous elections. But that warmth between the BJP and Panchamsalis has cooled off, and the swamiji has called the government "Vachan Brasta" — a government that has broken its word. They have written to the government to honour its commitment but have received no satisfactory reply, they said.

They will agitate at Kudalasangama over the next two or three weeks, where they will seek "divine Intervention" through prayers.

During the two-week agitation, groups of agitators will come to Kudalasangama from different parts of the state. In the first week of May, they will carry the agitation to districts and taluks, explained Jaya Mrutyunjaya Swamiji, adding that it could lead to the spread of disaffection against the government.

While Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has sought more time, the Panchamsali leaders have said that all deadlines are over. All Panchamsali MLAs, MLCs and important leaders of the community are expected to participate in this round of protest.

Meanwhile, BJP MLC and party general secretary Ravikumar said, "We will take up this issue at an appropriate time."

BSY confident of 150 seats for BJP in 2023

ENS @Davanagere

FORMER Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa on Tuesday said that teams of BJP state leaders will tour the state with an aim of winning 150 seats in the 2023 Assembly elections.

Addressing the media here, the 78-year-old senior BJP leader said that this was for the first time the party was approaching people with an objective of winning 150 Assembly seats. "We will also do door-to-door campaigning taking the development works of our PM Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. This will help the party to cross the target," he said. "After the completion of the Davangere Vibhagiya Baitak, we will start our state tour. During this tour, we will listen to the problems faced by people and solutions will be identified on the spot. Also, pending development works will be completed in a time-bound manner and the issue will be discussed with the CM," he added.

He said that the people of the country have rejected the Congress as evident from the results of the recent Assembly polls to five states. "PM has called for a Congress mukt Bharat... we will try to ensure this in the 2023 Karnataka Assembly elections. The grand old party will be wiped out from the state. The Congress which is dead in North Indian states is breathing only in Karnataka," he added. On the recent incident of violence in Hubballi, Yediyurappa said that the policing in the state was effective. "The culprits were arrested within an hour," he added.

Santosh suicide: Cops question GP prez, members

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @Belagavi

The Udupi police have speeded up investigation into the suicide of Belagavi-based civil contractor Santosh Patil. On Tuesday, the police questioned the president and members of Hindalga Gram Panchayat in Belagavi besides other road contractors, who were assigned to carry out road works at the Hindalga Gram Panchayat by Santosh.

According to sources, Nagesh Mannolkar, president of Hindalga GP, and 12 small-time road contractors who took up "piece works" of road development on the instructions of Santosh provided information about their works and their association with the victim to the probe team. According to sources, the contractors working under Santosh had reportedly completed the works at the behest of Patil who was exerting pressure on them to complete road works before Laxmi Jatra in Hindalga. Laxmi Jathra, which is held once every 100 years, was held recently in Hindalga.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar gives a cheque of Rs 11 Lakh to the family of civil contractor Santosh Patil at Badas village near Belagavi on Tuesday

After meeting the Udupi police team, Mannolkar said Santosh had given sub-contracts to as many as 12 contractors to complete the development of 108 roads in Hindalga limits. Santosh also had carried out road works worth Rs 50 lakh on his own, Mannolkar added.

It came to light during the interrogation of 12 sub-contractors that Santosh had claimed while assigning works to them that no permission was needed from any authorities to take up works under the RDPR funds, according to sources.

Mannolkar asserted before the investigating team that none of the sub-contractors had ever exerted pressure on Santosh for payment.

Meanwhile, KPCC president DK Shivakumar handed over a cheque of Rs 11 lakh to Santosh's wife Jayashree at the latter's residence in Badas village near Belagavi.

Also, former MLA Prakash Hukkeri, who is also a former MP, gave Rs 5 lakh to Jayashree.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

PUBLIC Works Department Minister C C Patil on Tuesday promised that the government will clear pending bills of works worth Rs 4,000 crore implemented by contractors, following work orders issued to take them up.

"My predecessors had given work orders, ceding to the pressure of party workers which resulted in pending bills, but we have been clearing them," he stated, while briefing the press on his department's progress. The department has been successfully developing roads at an estimated cost of Rs 2,500 crore, and the tender process has been completed for road works worth Rs 2,500 crore more, he said, adding that a scientific remedy has been planned for at least 70 accident-prone spots.

As many as 1,335 foot over bridges will be constructed in the coastal and Malnad regions at an estimated cost of Rs 200 crore, and bridges which were destroyed by floods across the state, will be reconstructed at a cost of Rs 610 crore, he added.

On the Peenya flyover issue, the minister clarified that the issue was brought to the notice of the Union Transport Minister Nitin Gadkari, and the NHAI would take up a probe into why it was not useful for heavy vehicles.

The Bengaluru-Mysuru 119km Expressway project is likely to be completed by the end of 2022, the minister added.

Minister should not indulge in politics over mutt affairs: Seer

THE Swamiji later in the day took it as a challenge and sought a platform to debate the issue and warned Patil that he would expose the minister as well as the state government.

The Swamiji on Sunday had alleged that even the mutts have to pay a 30% "commission" to the government to get the allotted grants released.

"Dingaleshwara Swamiji has three criminal cases against him and people of Gadag know about his antecedents well. He resorted to 'rowdyism' to become the successor to the 'Moorusavira Matha' (of Hubballi)," alleged Patil, speaking to reporters.

Patil said the Swamiji made the allegation as he was envious of allocation of Rs 202 crore to Gadag's Tontadarya Math. "CM Bommai had declared Tontadarya Mutt Sri Siddalinga Swamiji's birthday as 'bhavaikyate dina' (Integration Day) as he had good relationship with the seer, who is known for his scholarly works," Patil said. "After the CM's announcement, Dingaleshwara Swamiji started making baseless allegations against the government. What moral right does he have to recite the 'vachanas' of Basavanna as he could not stomach the government's support to another mutt," Patil asked.

"Swamis have a right to guide politics if it is at the crossroads. But he should not have made allegations of a commission allegation to appease a former MLA of another party," he added. "Giving bribes is as much an offence as taking it. Let him furnish the evidence and as to whom he has given the bribe, and we will conduct the probe," he said. The Swamiji sought to know whether Patil intended to indulge in politics over the mutts' affairs. "Patil has to stop making statements in an unconscious state of mind. He should be aware of what he is saying," he added.

"If Patil is keen on speaking about someone's personal life, I will arrange a stage for him. I will eagerly listen to his words. I will make it clear that I have not spoken ill against any pontiffs, including Tontadarya Siddalinga Swami," the Swamiji said.

20 blackbucks die in TN Raj Bhavan in 5 months since native grass replaced

Cosmetic changes like replacing grass with alien varieties can threaten their survival, say experts

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

THERE has been a sudden spurt in deaths of blackbucks inside Raj Bhavan. In the last five months, 20 blackbucks have perished, many of them reportedly due to starvation. In comparison, forest department data show only 10 blackbucks died in Raj Bhavan between 2017-2020.

TNIE is reliably informed that five months ago Raj Bhavan replaced native grass with an alien variety -- a mexican grass -- in the star garden, one of the two open grasslands and blackbuck habitats on the campus, that was carved out of reserved forests. TNIE is in possession of photos and videos that show the native grass being cleared with heavy machinery at the star garden area.

Experts said the alien variety is non-palatable to blackbucks and spotted deer and the link between the developments is hard to miss.

"Blackbucks, unlike spotted deer, feed only on a select varieties of fresh grass, herbs and shrubs. Cosmetic changes like replacing native grass with alien varieties and poor maintenance of open grasslands can threaten the survival of blackbucks," said Dr RJ Ranjit Daniels, Trustee, Care Earth.

"Raj Bhavan should be mindful that it is located inside a reserve forest and wildlife welfare should be the top priority. The grasslands need to be urgently revived and a wildlife management plan should be prepared," he added.

The blackbuck, an endangered antelope, is listed under Schedule 1 of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972, enjoying the highest protection. As per the recent population census, there are only 77 blackbucks left in the Guindy National Park and Raj Bhavan forest complex.

T Sengottaiyan, Deputy Secretary to the Governor and Comptroller of Governor's Household, did not respond to multiple messages and calls from TNIE. An email sent to the Governor's office also went unanswered.

In response to specific RTI queries on what grass was used in the star garden and polo ground and whether any changes had been done in the last five years, S Venkateshwaran, Under Secretary to Governor and public information officer on February 15, 2022 replied: "information not available from the office records".

Sources said that of the 20 blackbucks that died in recent months, three were fawns abandoned by their mother last December. They were rescued by the forest department, but succumbed.

Not many takers for KFD vaccine in Siddapur taluk

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Karwar

THE monkey fever has reared its ugly head again in Siddapur taluk of the district. But, the district administration is more worried about vaccination, which is moving at a slow pace due to people's unwillingness to get vaccinated, to avoid further spread of the disease. The number of people tested positive for Kyasanur Forest Disease (KFD) might be less than 10 this time, but there are not many takers for the vaccine also. According to doctors here, it is not a serious situation as there has been no death so far. But their worry is about the vaccination.

"The matter is not serious compared to previous years. We have started giving vaccinations, but many people are yet to get themselves vaccinated. We have started the vaccination drive but people are not responding positively," Sharad Naik, DHO, U-K Express. He said a doctor based in Honnavar has been entrusted with the KFD prevention and vaccination drive.

Satish Shet, medical officer incharge of KFD, said that there has not been much-expected response from people for the vaccination. "We delayed the vaccination programme. Moreover, there are not many takers for it," he said.

He said that the department will go for some promotional activities in the coming days. He said that the vaccination should have started in December 2021 so that the immunity could have been built by now. Though he said that there has been no death due to KFD, locals say that there was one death due to the fever and the person was serious and had been admitted to a hospital. On the poor response to the vaccination drive, Vasudeva Gouda of Siddapura said that the vaccination will cause fever and body pain.

"Any person who gets this vaccination will be tired and immobile for some days. Who will pay us if we lose one week's work" he asked.

HEALTH Minister Veena George on Tuesday convened a high-level meeting and appointed an expert committee to look into the present condition of the three mental health centres (MHC) in the state and submit a detailed report. It's a twin! Elephant gives birth to 2 calves

BK LAKSHMIKANTHA @ Mysuru, Bengaluru

IN one of the rarest incidents, the forest department staffers and some tourists were not just witness to an elephant giving birth, but also to twins at the Bandipur Tiger Reserve two days ago.

The tourists and staffers spotted a herd of elephants, including the pregnant female in labour, struggling to give birth near the old ticket counter. Unable to stand any longer, the elephant moved into a small water body, just 200 metres away from the reception centre, for the safety of her offspring and for ease of delivery. Soon, two tiny tots were out and swimming next to their mother.

"As the news spread, tourists started gathering with mobile phones and cameras to take photographs and videos. The wild cow elephant, which was still in post-delivery pain, was petrified to come out of water as a large crowd had gathered. Everyone could see two small heads floating in water. Fearing that they would drown as all three were not coming out of water, we cleared the crowd and guarded the area. After a long wait, feeling safe, the mother elephant emerged from the water body and then helped her calves out," BTR Director Ramesh Kumar told TNIE.

"Soon after the birth, all the three went back to their herd. We are not tracking them as we don't want to disturb them and add pressure on the newborns," he said. This is only the second such birth of twin elephant calves that they have come across, he added. The first was in 1994. But conservationists suggested that the twins have to be watched closely. Their growth, survival and lifecycle patterns should be studied, they said.

Elephant expert R Sukumar said such twins have been seen in only 1 per cent of captive animals. But the percentage in the wild is not known as it is a rare occurrence. "I have been recording all captive breeding cases since 1926 and have seen just four so far. The first was on May 21, 1971 in Mudumalai where Devaki gave birth to Vijay and Sujay. The second was in Bandipur in the 80s when Ashwin and Bharini were born and the third was in Anamalai in Tamil Nadu and the recent was again in Mudumalai. I had also seen wild twins in 1991 in Mudumalai," he said.

As elephants have large bodies and long gestation periods, giving birth to more than one calf is rare. They could be identical, non-identical, of two genders or of the same gender. A detailed study should be conducted to record their survival rate, he said.

TIME TO ADDRESS ELECTRIC VEHICLE SAFETY, INFRA ISSUES

Consumers in droves have risen to the call to go green and made a beeline for electric vehicles (EVs). In the two-wheeler segment alone, sales topped 50,000 units this March—a four-fold increase since March 2021. However, the initial experience has been challenging. After an Ola electric vehicle scooter caught fire, an entire truck full of Jitendra EV two-wheelers went up in smoke. Meanwhile, Okinawa Autotech, which produces a popular brand of electric scooters, has acknowledged there is a problem and recalled an entire lot of 3,125 scooters. Dealerships are reporting that these images have dampened sales by more than 10%. Electric passenger car buyers too are facing teething problems, mainly the lack of infrastructure.

Many first-time buyers of EVs are complaining of a shortage of charging and servicing stations. Most of the batteries being used claim they are good for 150 km, but usually work for just 100 km. This means frequent charging. Companies selling these cars are not facilitating easy charging setups at homes, while housing societies are blank about how to provide these facilities in common areas. Millions of car owners in India don't have proper parking facilities, which is compounding the problem.

Electric vehicle manufacturers and the government will thus have to step in to solve some serious technology and logistical bottlenecks. In a rush to go commercial, many EV manufacturers have neglected safety issues, especially with respect to batteries. The two deaths of a man and his daughter in Vellore, Tamil Nadu, are two too many. More efficient batteries that store a higher charge are also a crying need for consumers stressed about range issues. After targeting 2030 for phasing out all internal combustion engines, the government can hardly afford to be a bystander. It has to intervene in a big way on safety, and step up the charging and servicing infrastructure. Finally, as the demand for electricity ramps up with EVs flooding the market, the obvious contradiction of power being generated by fossil fuels like coal cannot be allowed. A quick changeover to cleaner power like solar and wind has to be planned.

COMMUNAL CONTENT IN KERALA'S TWIN MURDERS

Kerala is yet to recover from the shock of two murders within 24 hours in Palakkad late last week. Popular Front of India (PFI) area president Subair was attacked while he was returning after Friday prayers along with his father on Vishu day. The retaliation was swift and equally brutal. The very next day, attackers barged into the shop owned by RSS leader Sreenivasan, hacked him with swords and fled. As usual, allegations and counter-allegations poured in from all sides, and the opposition blamed the police for their failure and accused the government of promoting communal elements. It is imperative to pause for a while and see beyond what is evident. At first sight, the murders appear to be a continuation of the political killings Kerala is notorious for. But the latent communal content in these incidents is too obvious to be ignored and is attested to by minister K Krishnankutty. The stakeholders in the violence—the PFI and RSS—do not have a direct role in the democratic process. Their priorities are different from that of political parties. Therefore, what they intend by indulging in violence can only be assumed.

The RSS says its cadre are being attacked for opposing the "anti-national forces" and calls its men killed in the violence 'balidanis' who sacrificed their lives for the country. And the PFI positions itself as "defenders of the Muslims against fascist aggression". Both use religious symbols and jargon to justify their acts. It is difficult to douse the communal fire without understanding these internal dynamics. Seeing the killings as just another episode in the political violence would be missing the cardinal point. Apart from routine patrolling and gathering intelligence, the police must ensure that the investigation is impartial and only the real culprits are apprehended. It is not prudent to leave the responsibility of restoring peace only to the law enforcement agencies. Instead of watching the show from the gallery, political parties and civil society organisations should do their bit. If there are genuine grievances, they should be attended to immediately to gain the confidence of the aggrieved parties. Hard measures are needed if the intention is to keep the communal cauldron boiling.

Pakistan's power structure is unique with the Army sitting on top of the pyramid. Imran's attempt to break free of the Army's overlordship led to disputes

MILITOCRACY TRIUMPHS AGAIN IN PAKISTAN

SOUMYADIP SINHA

PINAK RANJAN CHAKRAVARTY

Former Ambassador and Secretary in MEA, and Visiting Fellow at ORF, Delhi

After some laboured political and constitutional contortions, Pakistan's Prime Minister Imran Khan lost the no-confidence vote. Former PM Nawaz Sharif's younger brother, Shehbaz, leader of PML-N, was sworn in as the new prime minister. Pakistan's President, an ally of Imran, took sick leave to avoid swearing in Shehbaz and the Senate Chairman had to stand in for him. Pakistan's Supreme Court took a tough stand on the constitutional issue and laid down strict markers for the no-confidence vote, which was repeatedly disallowed by the Speaker owing allegiance to Imran, knowing that the cricketer-turned-politician would lose.

In a show of defiance, 100 members of Imran's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party resigned from the National Assembly. Imran is the only PM to have been ousted by a no-confidence vote but he preserved the Army's enviable record of not permitting any PM to complete his/her tenure of five years in office. The Army, the ultimate arbiter of Pakistan's destiny, is sitting pretty, having pulled the strings from behind the scenes. Any PM who strays from the straight and narrow path laid down by the Army is doomed to bite the dust.

Imran's much vaunted promises of providing a corruption-free government had long gone up in smoke. His tactics of alleging an American conspiracy to oust him and his chutzpah in raking up the foreign conspiracy issue, based on a cable sent by Pakistan's Ambassador in Washington, was a calculated risk that backfired. Charging defectors from his PTI and other opposition MNAs of being corrupt and accepting bribes to oust him was another ploy that did not work.

During this political drama, there were rumours that Imran had tried to dismiss Gen Qamar Bajwa and replace him with his favourite Lt Gen Faiz Hameed, the former DG, ISI who was very visibly hobnobbing with the Taliban leaders, after the latter took over power in Kabul. Faiz had helped Imran in his political campaign when the Army decided to prop him up. His popularity attracted the Army's attention and he became the chosen one to remove PM Nawaz Sharif, who was asserting the supremacy of the civilian government, much to the discomfort of the Army. In an election rigged by the Army, Imran became PM and was dubbed the "selected PM".

Imran's record of governance has been pathetic and he has brought Pakistan's economy to the brink of bankruptcy and default. Even his claim to being above corruption is untenable. There are several allegations against him for raising illegal funds from abroad. Soaring inflation has driven the people to despair and the PTI's coalition partners were itching to ditch him when the time was ripe. The Army took advantage of these rifts.

The uniqueness of Pakistan's power structure, with the Army sitting on top of the pyramid, makes it a "Militocracy", where-in the Army zealously guards its turf in the security and foreign policy domains, apart from maintaining a firewall against interference in military affairs by civilian PMs. Unfortunately for Imran, he breached these longstanding "red lines" of the Army. His attempt to break free of the Army's overlordship led to disputes, the most egregious of which was the appointment of a new DG of the ISI, on which Imran crossed swords with the military. Pakistan's Army will not accept interference in its decisions on appointments from any PM. Imran's visit to Moscow may have been encouraged by China but became a bone of contention with the Army chief.

The Army has denied any foreign conspiracy and Gen Bajwa has rolled back Imran's tirade against the US. The Army chief has also condemned the Ukraine war and called it a "huge tragedy" and demanded that it should be stopped immediately via dialogue. He, predictably, tagged Kashmir to this issue and called for this dispute to be solved via dialogue. To assuage the Americans, Bajwa was all milk and sugar and said that Pakistan had "excellent" ties with it and extolled the "long and excellent strategic relationship with the US".

Imran has already returned to street politics and will continue to harass the Shehbaz Sharif government. He has been careful in not pointing fingers at the Army, keeping in mind that he could suffer the same fate as Nawaz

Imran had earlier praised India's independent foreign policy and contrasted it with Pakistan's inability to "stand on its own two feet". He had also tried to create a sub-group in the OIC with Turkey and Malaysia to challenge Saudi Arabia and the UAE, which led to bad blood with the two Arab countries. Foreign Minister Qureshi had publicly threatened the OIC for ignoring Pakistan's request to convene a FMs meeting over Kashmir. The OIC's invitation to India's EAM due to the UAE had irritated Pakistan considerably. Gen Bajwa had to mollify the two traditional Arab friends that had helped Pakistan with funds and provided credit for oil imports. Imran had consciously drifted towards the far-right, in his attempt to capture the position as the leader of the "Ummah" which challenged leaders like Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman of Saudi Arabia. They would be happy to see him ousted as PM.

PM Shehbaz has made friendly noises about ties with India with the usual caveat about Kashmir. India has responded by saying that ties can only return to normal in an ambience free of terrorism. Shehbaz will not make any difference on the terror front as the Army will not abandon this asymmetrical tool against India. Pakistan's failing economy has forced some decision like the conviction and imprisonment of UN-designated terrorist Hafiz Saeed, the Lashkar-e-Taiba chief. Pakistan is also desperately trying to exit the grey list of the FATF, which has severely constrained its ability to raise foreign funding.

Shehbaz is a seasoned politician and an able administrator. He will basically be focussed on surviving as PM, as his coalition is a fractious one and will probably crack as the next election approaches in January 2023. He inherits a sinking economy and a wounded Imran who will fight back. Shehbaz's tenure will be marked by a short honeymoon period and then limp along. He too faces several charges of corruption and money laundering and is unlikely to deviate from the line laid down by the Army and is likely to extend the tenure of Gen Bajwa, who has to retire in November this year.

Meanwhile, Imran has already returned to street politics and will continue to harass the Shehbaz government. He has been careful in not pointing fingers at the Army, keeping in mind that he could suffer the same fate as Nawaz. He will want to cash in on the "victim card", and widespread anti-American and anti-Army sentiments for his political agitation. There are faint hopes that Shehbaz may ease up on business links with India, given his background as an industrialist, but even this will require a nod from the Army. The road ahead for Pakistan and bilateral ties with India are not promising.

400/500 FORMULA, THE START OF OUR GROWTH STORY

HINDOL SENGUPTA

VP & Head of Research at Invest India, GoI's national investment promotion agency

This essay is about two critical data points that tell us which way India's economic future is going. The country recently clocked more than $500 billion in foreign direct investment in the last eight years and hit a record $400 billion in exports.

These two numbers are important because they encapsulate a transition in the Indian economy—from an informal-driven, loose, investment destination of great potential, and a domestic consumption-driven framework to a more structured, formal, streamlined, stable investment destination that is continuously pushing the boundaries of its exports.

The $500-billion number suggests something particularly important at this moment of great global turbulence. The world is unravelling and fracturing. The certainty of an older order is giving way to a time of transition, conflict (even in parts of the world that can scarcely believe that war has returned to their neighbourhood) and a churning of many a system arrogantly considered irretrievably 'global'.

This would be bad enough on its own, but it is made infinitely worse by global warming, which is already—years ahead of schedule—making summers in many major cities unbearable and any work in the open is increasingly impossible to contemplate.

Investors are seeking safe refuge in such an environment where growth of a certain measure at the very least is guaranteed both by political stability, positive policies and demographic predictability.

India is consistently seeking to build such policies across the board, whether it is through tax breaks or consistently chipping away at the compliance burdens (around 22,000 outdated compliances have been removed in recent years) or providing an ecosystem for new ventures including in start-ups to thrive. The world's third largest start-up ecosystem in India is an attractive destination for investors seeking growth in a conducive regulatory environment.

The other number is equally important. India aims to hit $1 trillion in exports in the coming years and has already touched a record $400 billion in merchandise exports for the first time.

This is a change in the India story. For a long time, the propellant in the narrative was domestic consumption and services exports. But the dynamic growth in merchandise exports is now shaping new possibilities. Many economists had argued in the past that India has missed the manufacturing and export-driven growth bus, but this is clearly not true.

The country recently clocked more than $500 billion in foreign direct investment in the last eight years and hit a record $400 billion in exports. These two numbers are important because they encapsulate a transition in the Indian economy. As conflict grows around the world and demand for business resilience becomes paramount, India has a unique opportunity to offer a promise

A renewed push towards 'Make in India' and programmes like the production-linked incentive (PLI) schemes have helped change the direction of the narrative and shown how much pent-up potential exists for exports. The latest PLI scheme in textiles for instance has cleared proposals from 61 companies with an investment potential of more than ₹19,000 crore, with a projected turnover of over ₹1,84,000 crore, and proposed employment for more than 2,40,000 people.

Hitting $400 billion in exports has eliminated the question of whether India can achieve export-driven growth; hitting $1 trillion will show the kind of potential the country always had in manufacturing, and which was being held back due to structural and policy hurdles.

As Apple starts to manufacture its latest iPhone 13 in India, it is a sign that in a world seeking shorter and stable supply chains, our nation is one of the biggest destinations able to provide the business continuity that investors seek.

As conflict grows around the world and demand for business resilience becomes paramount, our country has a unique opportunity to offer a promise, we can perhaps call it, the India promise.

This promise is based on providing a business climate that is unlikely to dramatically change—after all what business needs more than anything else is certainty. Business decisions are based on what will happen tomorrow, not what is happening today.

This promise is also based on being able to provide a large domestic, and democratic, consumer base, greater intellectual property right protection, and a world-class manufacturing base to export to other nations from India.

This promise is based on—to highlight but two numbers—the 400/500 formula. These numbers illustrate neatly that this is only the beginning of the India growth story.

Towards communal harmony

Mahatma Gandhi put communal harmony on the top of his 18 constructive programmes. Despite all the efforts taken by the Father of the Nation, communal violence is still present in our nation and reared its head again in Hubballi after a social media post. It is distressing to read about the occurrence of communal clashes even after over seven decades of India's Independence. Cooperation, accommodation, assimilation and compromise can be instilled in the minds of people through gram sabha meetings conducted periodically, and efforts on this front can be taken both by the government and NGOs. Inter-religious prayer meetings may be conducted as done in Gandhian institutions. Further, involvement of village youth as well as women self-help groups in the development programmes will definitely pave the way for peaceful coexistence, development and communal harmony.

Need stringent action

Sporadic violence that occurred during Hanuman Jayanti and Ram Navami celebrations in various parts of the country is unfortunate and deplorable. Jahangirpura in Delhi too witnessed unacceptable communal violence. The experience during the anti-CAA and anti-NRC demonstrations has not been wiped out of our memory yet. Such violence in the national capital gives a wrong message to the people. Divisive forces should be kept at bay. Stringent action should be taken against the perpetrators of communal strife. The government is duty-bound to maintain peace and harmony in society.

Cong's feudal foundations

The edit Congress takes baby steps towards transparency (Apr 19) is full of optimism about reform taking place in the grand old party. But historically, the party was built on a feudal foundation and Congress workers themselves believe they are there to strengthen the dynasty. Unless the first family makes sincere attempts to change this mindset of its leaders and workers, no change will take place in the party. One hopes the dynasty will release the party from its iron grip and usher in a new era in the Congress.

Punish marital rape

The author's objection to the recent Karnataka HC verdict that said a husband who allegedly perpetrated heinous sexual assault on his wife can be punished for rape, in spite of the exception provided under IPC Section 375, is understandable due to the technicalities involved (Why Karnataka marital rape verdict is problematic, April 15). As an advocate, his concerns are correct. But the common man is happy with the verdict. There is a strong demand in the country for removal of this exception under the IPC.

Re-infection high, hospitalisation low

Percentage of children testing positive is rising, but doctors say symptoms are mild so far

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

AS Covid-19 rears its head again, it has been noticed that a majority of the cases are of re-infection. The good news, however, is that most of the patients are showing mild to moderate symptoms. Also, the hospitalisation rate is low.

Doctors are of the opinion that keeping the current situation in mind, cases are expected to rise and most of them will be concerning children. At the same time, they have said that there will be no fourth wave.

According to Dr Sushila Kataria, senior director of internal medicine at Medanta Hospital in Gurugram, Covid cases are bound to increase in urban areas because of the relaxation on wearing masks, lifting of restrictions, increased number of gatherings and reopening of schools.

"It has been observed that children are getting exposed to the virus and bringing the infection to other family members," Kataria said. She added that many instances of re-infection have been detected and most of them concern patients who had caught the virus in the first and second waves. Those infected in the third wave powered by the Omicron variant are reporting lower numbers of re-infection.

A healthcare worker administers Covid vaccine to children in Bikaner, Rajasthan | PTI

Kataria said that most patients are reporting mild symptoms and have not needed hospitalisation. "Severity has largely reduced due to vaccination. However, vaccination does not prevent infection 100 per cent," she told this newspaper.

Dr Sanjith Saseedharan, consultant and head of critical care at SL Raheja Hospital in Mahim (a Fortis associate), also said that a large number of people testing positive now are cases of re-infection.

"Going by the good coverage of vaccination and sero-positivity due to natural infection, chances of a repeat of last year's Delta wave is a very distant possibility," he said.

He added that vaccination has been the biggest weapon in the fight against Covid-19, which has not only saved lives but also helped in lowering case severity, other than preventing the disease from overwhelming the healthcare infrastructure.

Dr Farah Ingale, director of internal medicine at Vashi's Hiranandani Hospital, said cases of re-infection are not a major concern, provided the person is vaccinated. "People should not panic but follow appropriate Covid-19 behaviour so that the cases do not rise exponentially," she said.

A composed General to lead Indian Army's tech empowerment

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

FOLLOWING the announcement that Lieutenant General Manoj Pande will become the 29th chief of Indian Army, one has to juxtapose this elevation with the way Indian armed forces have adapted to major technological and institutional changes of late.

Lt Gen Pande is the first Corps of Engineer officer to take charge of the Indian Army in its 75-year history. This daily spoke to his course mates, officers under whom he served and officers who served under him to know more about him.

One point reiterated by every person is the innate composure of Lt Gen Pande. "It is a crucial appointment, when the country is facing a number of external and internal security challenges, including the stand-off along the northern border and proxy war on the western border," said Major General SB Asthana (retired).

Lt Gen Pande has a lot of experience in working on the Line of Control, Line of Actual Control and the tri-services matter which will shape the future of the armed forces. India is heading towards integration of the armed forces and here is an officer who led the only tri-services command.

"He is a thorough professional — cool, calm and composed — with a stable mind to handle such a variety of security challenges which the country faces," said Maj Gen Asthana, "He has experience in various theatres within the country as well as in the international environment, including the UN where we served together."

Maj Gen Asthana and Lt Gen Pandey served at the UN Mission in Ethiopia and Eritrea, when Asthana was a Colonel and Pande a Lt Colonel.

A senior serving officer in the army headquarters said he is the most suitable person to lead the Indian Army at this critical time. "With his technical background, combined with military professionalism, he will be able to handle the modernisation transformation, indigenization and technological enablement and technical empowerment of the Indian army," said the officer.

Major General Ajay Seth (retired) remembers his course mate as one who has a lot of confidence in what he does. Seth and Pandey had joined the 61 Course of National Defence Academy and were commissioned together in December 1982. "We both were appearing for Part D exams at Yol, Himachal Pradesh, in 1988 which are important for promotions. We were the junior most among those appearing, as we had around six years of service. We had not been able to prepare but I had an advantage as I was able to prepare notes. Manoj asked me to share the notes during night when I was about to go to sleep. And, the notes were back in my room which was opposite his room, before I woke up, without failing." Both of them cleared the exam in their first attempt.

His composure and ability to listen and learn is going to help not just the Indian Army but the entire national security apparatus, said Major General Seth. Lt Gen Pande is blessed with a son who is a serving military officer. Simplicity is the virtue which he shares with his wife Archana Pande, added Major General Seth.

Modi pitches for 'traditional medicine' at WHO centre opening

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Ahmedabad/New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday once again showcased his diplomatic prowess in his home state Gujarat, with World Health Organisation Director General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus and Prime Minister of Mauritius Pravind Kumar Jugnauth joining him in person for the foundation-laying ceremony for the WHO Global Centre for Traditional Medicine in Jamnagar while the PMs of Bhutan, Nepal and Bangladesh attended virtually.

On the occasion, Modi called for blending ancient wisdom with modern sciences. "India's worthy traditions are useful to the world in fighting diseases like diabetes, obesity and depression. Yoga lives on through International Yoga Day and is helping in decreasing mental pressure," Modi said. "Ayurveda goes beyond just healing and treatment; Ayurveda is considered the fifth Veda in India."

The centre established by the government in partnership with the WHO is set to usher in a worldwide era of traditional medicine for the next 25 years, the PM said. "This centre is supported by an investment of $250 million from the Indian government and aims to harness the potential of traditional medicine from across the world through modern science and technology to improve the health of people and the planet," said a WHO statement.

Tedros in his address said, "It will help to harness the power of science to strengthen evidence-based traditional medicine. This is a truly global project. This means that India will go to the world and the whole world will come to India."

Jugnauth said Ayurveda was recognised in Mauritius, too.

Earlier, Modi dedicated to the nation a new dairy complex and potato processing plant at Diyodar, Banaskantha district, built at a cost of over ₹600 crore. He interacted with women dairy farmers at the Banas dairy complex and advised them to get their livestock vaccinated. The PM also dedicated the Banas Community Radio Station to the nation. It will provide farmers with key scientific information related to agriculture and animal husbandry.

Modi and his Mauritian counterpart later in the evening took part in a roadshow after arrival at the Ahmedabad airport. The two traveled in separate vehicles as people lined up on both sides of the road and headed for the Raj Bhavan in Gandhinagar.

Modi's cavalcade passed first, with the PM waving at the people, followed by cars in the Mauritian prime minister's convoy, officials said.

YOGI 'MODEL CODE' PUTS CURBS ON PROCESSIONS, LOUDSPEAKERS

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

IN the wake of a possibility that Eid and Akshay Trirtiya would fall on the same day, the UP government has announced fresh restrictions on processions, religious or others, making prior permission mandatory. The guidelines issued by CM Yogi Adityanath came amid recent incidents of communal flare-up in various parts of the country, including the national capital.

Microphones at religious events are allowed but the sound should not go outside the premises. Recently in Aligarh, a clash occurred between right-wing groups and the district administration over mounting of loudspeakers at 21 crossings across the city where high-pitch Hanuman Chalisa was played.

The CM late Monday night met police officers through videoconferencing and a reviewed law and order in the state. He instructed the police to allow only traditional religious processions and avoid giving permission for new events. The CM expressed satisfaction over the peaceful celebration of religious festivals.

"Many important religious festivals are due in the coming days. The festival of Eid and Akshaya Tritiya are likely to the same day (May 3). Given the current environment, the police will have to be extra cautious and sensitive," he said.

Police officers ranging from station house officers to the additional director general have been told to communicate with religious leaders and eminent people in their areas. Instructions were also given to ensure that religious programmes took place at the designated spots, not roads.

The CM warned that troublemakers trying to spoil the atmosphere should be dealt with strictly. The leave of all police officers has been cancelled till May 4, with a direction to officers currently on leave to return to their posting within 24 hours.

The CM has directed local officials such as tehsildars, sub-divisional magistrates and SHOs to rest at night in their area of deployment, even if they need to rent accommodation.

TOP COURT TOLD

Govt bound by assurance to Portugal on Abu Salem

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Government of India is bound by the commitment given to the Portugal government on December 17, 2002, by the then deputy prime minister L K Advani that the maximum sentence handed out to gangster Abu Salem would not exceed 25 years, the Union Home Secretary told the Supreme Court.

"The period of 25 years which is mentioned in the assurance will be abided by the Union of India as the appropriate time subject to the remedies which may be available," Home Secretary Ajay Kumar Bhalla said in the affidavit submitted before the court.

"The question of the Union of India honouring its assurance will arise only when the period of 25 years is going to expire. Before the said date, the appellant-convict cannot raise any arguments based on the said assurance. Therefore, the contention of petitioner about non-compliance of assurance is premature and based on hypothetical surmises and never be raised in present proceedings," it further stated.

The period of 25 years expires on November 10, 2030.

The Supreme Court had on April 12 granted the last opportunity to the Home Secretary to file the affidavit on the issue. On the last date of hearing, the Solicitor General had said that Abu Salem is a convict in Mumbai serial blasts case and cannot dictate terms either to the court or to the government.

This came on the submission by Salem's lawyer that the Home Secretary should file the affidavit by the next day.

AAP MP's remark reignites Punjab-Haryana slugfest over SYL

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A remark by Haryana AAP incharge and Rajya Sabha MP Sushil Gupta on the availability of Sutlej-Yamuna Link (SYL) canal water in his state in about three years drew sharp reactions from Punjab Congress and the Sriromani Akali Dal (SAD).

Gupta said that by 2025, the river waters would reach every agricultural field of Haryana. "Since the reorganization of Punjab over 50 years ago, both Haryana and Punjab have been governed by Congress and other parties. They have not solved the SYL canal issue due to vote-bank politics. We now have an AAP government in Punjab. In 2024, we'll have an AAP government in Haryana too," he said.

Haryana has a BJP-ruled government headed by ML Khattar.

This is the second time the AAP has touched Punjab's raw nerve. A few days ago, Punjab's nascent AAP government got an Assembly resolution passed demanding Chandigarh for the state. The decades-old SYL controversy has not been resolved despite court interventions and Punjab's assertion that it doesn't have water to share with Haryana.

On Tuesday, state Congress and SAD asked Chief Minister Bhagwant Singh Mann to clarify his stand on the SYL. "Mann ji, I had warned you that the enemy is on the door and the SYL issue is going to become a life-and-death issue for Punjab. AAP MP Sushil Gupta has claimed that he will get water for Haryana and AAP MPs are silent over this," tweeted new Punjab Congress chief Amrinder Raja Warring. In another tweet, he asked Mann to take all parties into confidence and prepare "legal-administrative strategies."

Congress MLA Pargat Singh too jumped in. "While Punjab has not a drop of water to spare, AAP's Rajya Sabha member is guaranteeing Punjab's waters to Haryana through SYL," tweeted the former hockey player.

The SAD asked Mann to tell Punjabis whether Gupta's "guarantee" had the CM's blessings. SAD leader Daljit Singh Cheema said: "The Delhi MP, who is from Haryana, could have only given such a guarantee if he had been authorised to do so by AAP convener Arvind Kejriwal. The issue is whether the Punjab CM was in the loop." He warned that Punjabis would never allow AAP to "barter away" Punjab's core interests for electoral gains in Haryana.

The Haryana government is likely to file a contempt of court plea against Punjab for not complying with the Supreme Court orders of January 15, 2002, and June 4, 2004. The orders directed Punjab to complete the work on the remaining portion of the SYL canal.

A few days ago, the Haryana Assembly passed a resolution seeking completion of the SYL canal and the transfer of Hindi-speaking areas from Punjab, while denouncing the neighbouring state for staking its claim over Chandigarh.

Gift of joint family property only for 'pious' purpose: SC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Tuesday observed that a Hindu father or any other managing member of a Hindu undivided family has power to make a gift of ancestral property only for a 'pious purpose', and what is understood by the term 'pious purpose' is a gift for charitable and/or religious purpose.

"Therefore, a deed of gift in regard to the ancestral property executed 'out of love and affection' does not come within the scope of the term 'pious purpose'," the SC bench comprising Justices Abdul Nazeer and Justice Krishna Murari said.

The bench further observed that it is trite law that the karta/manager of a joint family property may alienate the joint property only in three situations, which include legal necessity, for the benefit of the estate and with the consent of all the coparceners of the family.

The observations came on an appeal against a Karnataka High Court order. The settlement deed/gift deed executed by the first defendant in favour of the second defendant was rightly declared null and void by the high court, the SC bench said. ENS

SC reconstitutes expressway panel

Director general of environment ministry to head committee on Delhi-Dehradun road project

AG, SG agree with panel member suggestion

Attorney General KK Venugopal, appearing for the Centre, and Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for NHAI, agreed to the suggestion that independent members could be added to the committee. Venugopal objected to the name of Pandav who is junior to the Director of Wildlife Institute of India and suggested the name of Joshi, who he said was awarded Padma Bhushan

Point raised by NGO addressed by court

On April 8, the top court had told the NGO challenging the order of the National Green Tribunal (NGT) giving a go-ahead to the Delhi-Dehradun Economic Corridor Expressway which will reduce travel time between the two cities by four hours, that it can raise its grievance over environment and biodiversity before an expert committee. The court asked for names to be incorporated in the panel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday reconstituted an expert committee formed by the National Green Tribunal to oversee the compensatory afforestation and other mitigation measures for the Delhi-Dehradun Expressway by including some additional members and replacing its chairperson.

The six-lane highway will reduce travel time from 6.5 hours to 2.5 hours, as per the plan of the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) and would have a 12 km elevated road to protect wildlife and forests.

A bench comprising Justices DY Chandrachud and Aniruddha Bose directed that the chairperson of the expert committee will be CP Goyal, Director-General of Forests in the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change.

The NGT had directed the chief secretary of the Uttarakhand government to head the expert panel. The bench said that the replacement of the chairperson should not be seen as an expression of lack of confidence on the part of the Uttarakhand chief secretary and was only recasting the committee to ensure a broad understanding is facilitated in the implementation of the work.

The top court also included Anil Prakash Joshi, founder of Himalayan Environmental Studies and Conservation Organisation (HESCO), and environmentalist Vijay Dhasmana as additional members of the oversight committee.

The court's order came on an appeal filed by an NGO 'Citizens for Green Doon' which has challenged the NGT order clearing the way for construction of the Delhi-Dehradun Expressway after constituting an expert panel.

The NGO has claimed that there are no independent persons involved in the expert panel and comprised of officials of Central and State governments and alleged that there was also an issue of conflict of interest on the part of the Wildlife Board of India.

Advocate Ritwik Dutta, appearing for the NGO, suggested the name of independent members of the committee as was sought by the top court. The advocate submitted the names of Bibhash Pandav, faculty of the Wildlife Institute of India, MK Singh, and Vijay Dhasmana.

He also suggested that the chairman of the committee be replaced with the Director-General of Forests and pointed out that of the entire stretch of the Delhi-Dehradun expressway very less portion is in Uttarakhand and therefore chief secretary of Uttarakhand should not head the committee.

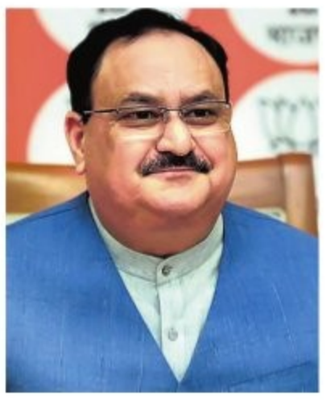
Work collectively to ensure poll win: Nadda to leaders

RAJESH K THAKUR & RAJESH ASNANI @ New Delhi/ Jaipur

WARRING Rajasthan BJP leaders have been told to work in the spirit of 'collective leadership' to ensure the party's return to power in the assembly polls due next year. This became clear after state BJP leaders on Tuesday met party chief JP Nadda in Delhi.

Leaders from both anti and pro-Vasundhara factions attended the meeting and agreed to focus on the "misgovernance" of the Congress-ruled state. Sources said Nadda asked them to remain active on their social media platforms and expose the state government's failures on the development front. "They have also been asked to go in election mode and prepare for Home Minister Amit Shah's visit to Rajasthan next month," said a party source.



Those who attended the meeting were Vasundhara Raje, Satish Punia, Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, party's leader of opposition in the assembly Gulab Chand Kataria, Arjun Meghwal and others.

Bipolar Rajasthan has had a trend of change of government every five years. This is making state BJP leaders impatient as major contenders for the CM's chair have become active within the party.

Party sources said a message has gone out that those abetting factionalism would face action. In the meeting with Nadda, the leaders also discussed strategies for the assembly elections and shared feedback with the party chief.

The state BJP is riven with factionalism with a battle for supremacy raging between Raje and the party's state party chief Satish Poonia, who heads the RSS faction. The standoff has persisted despite repeated instructions by Nadda and the state in-charge Arun Singh.

Raje's supporters are upset ever since her isolation from state politics by the Central leadership. Raje, who has been twice Chief Minister, is on the back foot since the 2018 election loss.

Deserve higher post: Jammu lawyer

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

EVEN as the Jammu and Kashmir administration appointed him as a government advocate in the high court, visually impaired lawyer Suraj Singh claimed that he was entitled for senior positions.

Singh, who has been practising law since 2011, is not satisfied with the post offered to him at Jammu. According to Singh, there was a gazette notification last year stating that the visually impaired practicing lawyers could be appointed as Advocate General and Additional Advocate Generals.

"I am the lone visually impaired lawyer in J&K High Court and I have been practising since 2011. It is my right that I should be appointed as Additional Advocate General. Instead the government has appointed me as government advocate," he asserted.

Singh said his work would be hampered given that the required infrastructure was not available. "The infrastructure and technological support I needed to prove myself is not available," he said, adding that the support he needed was available with the two senior posts of Advocate General and Additional Advocate Generals.

According to Singh, justice has not been done to him. "I was entitled for the post of AAG and instead I have been offered a government lawyer's post."

Singh has twice gone on protest to demand the AAG post, special recruitment drive for the specially-abled persons and implementation of disability law in J&K. " (But) there has been no development in J&K for the rights of disabled people. They continue to suffer."

Singh said the Supreme Court passed an order on October 8, 2013 directing governments to advertise all backlog vacant posts for the disabled persons and recruit people on merit. Unfortunately, he said, nothing has happened in J&K. "I urge the government to start a special recruitment drive for the disabled people... The educated disabled persons should be appointed as per their merit."

EXTRA CRPF COVER FOR YATRA IN J&K

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

PTI

AFTER the recent spate of targeted militant attacks, additional 50 CRPF companies are being inducted into Kashmir for ensuring safety to the Amarnath pilgrims.

The annual pilgrimage is commencing from June 30.

Other than sanitising the areas lying on Pahalgam route in south Kashmir and Baltal route in central Kashmir, the paramilitary personnel will be deployed for Road Opening Parties (ROPs) on the Srinagar-Jammu highway in the Valley.

A CRPF officer said the additional companies are being inducted exclusively for the yatra duty in the Valley. One company of CRPF comprises 135 personnel.

Since a large number of pilgrims are expected to perform the yatra this year, more troops would be required for their safety. "In last week of May, it will be decided how many more companies are needed for the yatra's security," he said.

I&B secretary Apurva Chandra had recently stated that 6-8 lakh pilgrims were expected to undergo the Amarnath yatra, which would take place after a gap of two years due to the pandemic.

The pilgrimage was cut short in 2019 ahead of abrogation of Article 370 of the Constitution.

CRPF spokesperson Junaid Ahmad told this newspaper that the CRPF units of Jammu sector would escort the yatra convoys from Jammu to Banihal while the remaining leg would be under the cover of the personnel looking after the Kashmir operations.

Another security official said other paramilitary forces as well as the Army would also be assisting the CRPF. "The army would be deployed in interior areas in south and central Kashmir to keep watch on the movement of people while CRPF and other paramilitary forces would be taking up ROP duties."

Meanwhile, the paramilitary companies withdrawn from the Valley for poll duties in five states are being re-inducted. This step comes in the wake of the attacks on migrant workers, Kashmiri Rajput Hindu, Kashmiri Pandit, and panchayat members.

Govt docs on stir, health services hit in Nagaland

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

PUBLIC health services in Nagaland were partially affected on the second day of a three-day stir launched by the government doctors across the Northeast state.

The Nagaland In-Service Doctors Association (NIDA) had told its members to go on casual leave en masse in protest against the government's 'failure' to increase the retirement age from 60 years to 62 years.

While the NIDA had a meeting with Chief Secretary J Alam on Tuesday, details of the discussions were not known.

Earlier in the day, NIDA president Dr E Phyantsuthung told this newspaper that the doctors, other than those assigned for emergency services, were not attending duties. "We will not relent unless the retirement age of all government doctors is raised to 62 years," Dr Phyantsuthung said.

As over 500 regular and contractual doctors are staying away from duties, the government has turned to private doctors for help. But the move is unlikely to provide relief as there are only a small number of private hospitals in Nagaland. "The government has sought their help. It had a meeting with them two days ago," Dr Phyantsuthung said.

The government had earlier warned that doctors going on agitation would face action under the provisions of Nagaland Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1968. It had also said that the salary of the agitating doctors would be deducted as per its policy of "no work, no pay".

Poll misconduct? EC lens on Himanta

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE State Election Commission has ordered a probe into alleged violation of the election model code of conduct by Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma.

Opposition Asom Jatiya Parishad (AJP) had lodged a complaint after which the Commission directed the Kamrup (Metro) district magistrate to conduct the probe.

"I am directed to forward herewith a copy of the complaint petition dated April 18 received from AJP Kamrup (Metro) president Sanjeev Bora and request you to kindly enquire into the matter and furnish a report to this Commission at an early date," the State Election Commission secretary wrote to the district magistrate.

Bora alleged that during campaigning for the April 22 Guwahati civic elections, Sarma had lured the voters by announcing that 1,000 more persons from each ward would be added to the list of beneficiaries of the Orunodoi scheme and ₹10 crore would be provided to each ward for developmental activities if the BJP candidates are voted to power.

Orunodoi is a direct benefit transfer scheme of the state government, which gives doles to lakhs of families in the form of monthly payments.

"This is tantamount to a deliberate attempt to interfere with respect to free exercise of electoral rights of the voters and an inducement/undue influence to voters within the meaning of section 123 of the Representation of the People Act and section 171 of IPC apart from gross violation of the model code of conduct," the AJP leader wrote in his petition to the panel.

The opposition leader accused Sarma of vitiating the entire election process and sought legal and penal action from the poll panel against the Assam chief minister.

Bochaha win gives sail to RJD plan

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

BOLSTERED by the win in the Bochaha bypoll, the opposition Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) is looking to strengthen its position further in the Bihar Assembly

After meeting the newly elected party MLA from Bochaha Amar Paswan in Patna, RJD leader Tejashwi Prasad exuded confidence that the RJD would soon overwhelm the Nitish Kumar-led NDA government in Bihar.

The win in Bochaha has bolstered the RJD's strength to 76 in the 243-member Assembly. The RJD along with its allies Congress and Left parties have altogether 110 MLAs. If five MLAs of the Asaduddin Owaisi-led All India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen join hand, the opposition alliance will have 115 members — seven short of the magic figure of 122 to form the government.

Later, RJD spokesperson Mritunjay Tiwari claimed that more than a dozen MLAs of JDU were in touch with the RJD top brass to switch sides. The party leadership is keeping a close watch on the development, he said.

"Several JDU MLAs are feeling suffocated. They have expressed desire to quit the party and join the RJD due to the growing influence of the BJP in the government," Tiwari claimed, adding that the RJD was short of only seven MLAs to stake claim to form the government.

The JDU, however, dismissed the claim made by Tiwari. "The RJD leaders are day-dreaming. The JDU as well as the NDA is intact. The question of change of guards does not arise," JDU MLC Neeraj Kumar asserted.

Similarly, BJP MLC Sanjay Mayukh claimed that the RJD was trying to create a confusion among the people and spreading message that the upper castes were not 'untouchable' for the opposition party. "(But) one cannot come to any conclusion only on the basis of result of a bypoll win."

Over 13K objectionable posts removed from net

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

OVER 13,000 objectionable social media posts having inflammatory contents were removed from the cyber space in the last three months, the Mumbai Police said.

According to the data provided by the police, over 5,754 objectionable social media posts were removed in January. Over 4,252 and 3,998 posts were sanitised in the next two months.

The police force has a dedicated unit, Social Media Lab (SML), to monitor the online world for keeping check on objectionable contents. The members of this unit are trained by security and cyber experts, including those from the Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT),

A police source said the department was on an average removing 30-35 posts every day. Beside, the police were keeping tight vigilance on social media activities to avert any danger.

"If a person is found consistently posting objectionable matter despite warning, legal actions can be initiated after filing an FIR," the source said.

Maharashtra home minister Dilip Walse Patil said that the government was keeping a watch on anti social activities after the spate of communal violence in various states. "We are monitoring both real and virtual world. The situation is under control. Strict action will be taken against those who conspire to stoke communal tension in society," he said.

NCP chief Sharad Pawar had earlier said that there were deliberate attempts being made to divide communities on religious line.

Raje's hard Hindutva image ahead of polls

Former Chief Minister Vasundhara Raje's sudden display of Hindutva fervour is creating quite a buzz in Rajasthan. Her media cell recently stated along with a photo of Raje taking a dip in the 'Naabhi Kund' of the Narmada river. In her statement, Raje slammed Congress for not getting work done at any temples and claimed such work will be done once a BJP government is formed in Rajasthan. A few days ago, after visiting the riot-affected Karauli, she said that the government is banning Hindu festivals which will not be tolerated. Raje has an image of a moderate leader in the BJP but people close to her say that she has changed herself to be in sync with the BJP's hardcore Hindutva tone.

Pilot's silence sparks buzz in Rajasthan Congress

Sachin Pilot staying away from the 'Azaadi Yatra' of the Congress has triggered a hot political debate. For this yatra, CM Ashok Gehlot, AICC in-charge Ajay Maken and state Congress president Govind Singh Dotasra went from Jaipur to Udaipur in the same plane and then by helicopter to the Gujarat border but Pilot was not with them. A few months ago, when Gehlot-Maken-Dotasra went for meetings in the by-elections, they not only took Pilot along but also shared it on social media by taking a selfie in the helicopter. There at the rally, however, CM Gehlot remembered the revolt of the Pilot camp. CM Gehlot also didn't miss an opportunity to taunt Pilot while addressing the rally.

State housing board nets record ₹6k crore turnover

The turnover of the Rajasthan Housing Board has crossed ₹6,000 crore under the Ashok Gehlot government – a record. Of this, ₹4,536 crore in revenue has already been received and the rest will arrive through instalments. The focus of the former Vasundhara Raje government was on promoting private builders whereby the RHB became almost inactive. When the current CEO Pawan Arora was given command of the board in June 2019, the turnover of the division was only ₹118 crore. With the turnover rising to ₹6,000 crore, Arora says the board has started new works worth ₹1,700 crore. These include the country's first coaching hub being built for ₹396 crore and the constitution club.

'Kishor should prove himself first in states'

CONGRESS sources said some leaders were of the view that before giving him full responsibility of strategising the 2024 general elections, he should be asked to prove the efficacy of his plan in the impending state elections.

"Elections are due in over a dozen states before the 2024 Lok Sabha elections. Congress holds a little over 400 seats out of the 1,500-plus seats in these states. Let him first help the party improve its tally in these states before taking a big bite," said a senior Congress leader. Kishor has already announced that he would be part of a political party by May 2, when his sabbatical ends.

One dead, 24 wounded as Sri Lanka police open fire at anti-govt agitators

COLOMBO

SRI LANKA police shot dead one man and wounded 24 others on Tuesday in the first fatal clash with demonstrators protesting the island nation's crippling economic crisis.

The island nation is in the grip of its most painful economic downturn since independence in 1948, with severe shortages of essential goods such as fuel and regular blackouts causing widespread misery.

Huge protests have called for the resignation of the government, which is preparing to negotiate an urgently needed bailout with the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

Police fired live rounds at a crowd that had blockaded a highway in the central town of Rambukkana to protest oil shortages and high prices, hospital and police officials told AFP. The protest was one of many spontaneous gatherings staged around Sri Lanka on Tuesday, after the country's main petrol retailer hiked prices by nearly 65 percent.

Tens of thousands of angry motorists in various parts of the country blocked arterial roads with mounds of burning tyres to condemn the move.

In the capital Colombo, a large crowd of protesters have maintained a camp outside the seafront office of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa for more than a week, demanding the leader step down.

Doctors at Sri Lanka's main children's hospital also staged a protest on Tuesday over a severe shortage of medicines and equipment.

In a bid to address growing calls for his entire government to resign, Rajapaksa on Monday appointed a new cabinet and acknowledged public anger over the ruling family's mismanagement.

Sri Lanka is seeking three to four billion dollars from the IMF to overcome its balance-of-payments crisis and boost depleted reserves.

RUSSIA RATCHETS UP BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF EASTERN UKRAINE

In new phase of war, Russia intensifies assault on cities and towns in the region

KYIV

RUSSIA ratcheted up its battle for control of Ukraine's eastern regions on Tuesday, intensifying assaults on cities and towns along a front hundreds of miles long in what officials on both sides described as a new phase of the war.

After a Russian push to overrun the capital failed, the Kremlin declared that its main goal was the capture of the eastern Donbas region, where Moscow-backed separatists have been fighting Ukrainian forces for eight years.

If successful, that offensive would give President Vladimir Putin a vital piece of Ukraine and a badly needed victory in the now 7-week-old war that he could present to the Russian people amid mounting casualties and economic hardship caused by the West's sanctions.

It would also effectively slice Ukraine in two and deprive it of the main industrial assets concentrated in the east, including coal mines, metals plants and machine-building factories.

Ukraine's military said early Tuesday that a "new phase of war" began a day earlier when "the occupiers made an attempt to break through our defenses along nearly the entire frontline." Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov said that "another phase of this operation is starting now."

Ukraine's president said that massive numbers of Russian troops were committed to the offensive, though some observers noted that an escalation has been underway there for some time.

Justin Crump, a former British tank commander, said the Ukrainian comments could, in part, be an attempt to persuade allies to send more weapons.

"What they're trying to do by positioning this, I think, is ... focus people's minds and effort by saying, 'Look, the conflict has begun in the Donbas,'" said Crump, of strategic advisory company Sibylline. "That partly puts pressure on NATO and EU suppliers to say, 'Guys, we're starting to fight now. We need this now.'"

European and American arms have been key to bolstering Ukraine's defense, helping the under-gunned country to hold off the Russian force. Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte told Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy on Tuesday by phone that the Netherlands would send "heavier material" to Ukraine, including armored vehicles.

In what appeared to be an intensification of attacks, Russian Defense Ministry spokesman Maj Gen Igor Konashenkov said that air-launched missiles destroyed 13 Ukrainian troop and weapons locations while the air force struck 60 other Ukrainian military facilities, including missile warhead storage depots. Russian artillery hit 1,260 Ukrainian military facilities and 1,214 troops concentrations over the last 24 hours. The claims could not be independently verified.

Pentagon press secretary John Kirby cast the stepped-up campaign as "shaping operations" setting the stage for a broader offensive in the mostly Russian-speaking Donbas region. The assaults began that day along a boomerang-shaped front that stretches more than 480 kilometers from northeastern Ukraine to the country's southeast.

Russia said it struck several areas with missiles, including the northeastern city of Kharkiv as well as as areas around Zaporizhzhia and Dnipro west of the Donbas. Five civilians were killed in a barrage on Kharkiv, Gov. Oleh Synyehubov said Tuesday.

Moscow's troops seized control of one town in the Donbas on Monday, according to Luhansk Gov. Serhiy Haidai. Oleksiy Danilov, secretary of Ukraine's national security council, said that the defensive line had held elsewhere.

The breakthrough in Kreminna takes the Russians one small step closer to their apparent goal of encircling Ukrainian troops in the region. AP

Russia opens corridor for Ukrainian troops

Moscow said Russian forces had opened a humanitarian corridor for Ukrainian troops who agreed to lay down their arms to leave the embattled city of Mariupol. Some of the heaviest fighting of the Russian military campaign has focused around the strategic Sea of Azov port city. To that end, Russian forces and troops of the self-proclaimed Donetsk People's Republic "halted any military activity" around the Azovstal steelworks plant. AFP

At least three people were killed and 21 were injured in new Russian shelling on Ukraine's second city of Kharkiv on Tuesday, local authorities said. Suu Kyi expects verdict in corruption case

Yangon: Ousted Myanmar leader Aung San Suu Kyi is expected to hear the first verdict in one of her corruption trials next week, a source close to the case told AFP Tuesday, where she faces a possible 15 years in jail. The Nobel laureate has been detained since her government was forced out in a coup last year that triggered mass protests, and she faces a raft of charges that could see her sentenced to more than 150 years in jail. The 76-year-old has already been handed a six-year sentence for violating Covid-19 rules and walkie-talkie import regulations, but this is the first of her corruption cases to return a verdict. The junta court is expected to rule on the allegation that she took a bribe from former Yangon CM, a source said. AFP

Israeli airstrike hits Gaza as tensions spike

JERUSALEM

ISRAEL carried out its first air strike on the Gaza Strip in months early on Tuesday, in response to a rocket fired from the Palestinian enclave after a weekend of violence around a Jerusalem holy site.

The army also said its special forces had made five arrests overnight in the occupied West Bank, which has seen a string of deadly Israeli raids since an uptick in attacks and demonstrations four weeks ago.

Tensions have focused on the highly contested Al-Aqsa mosque compound, known to Jews as the Temple Mount, in Jerusalem's Israeli-annexed Old City.

Palestinian worshippers gathering there for Ramadan prayers have been outraged by visits by religious Jewish under heavy Israeli police protection -- as well as restrictions on their own access.

Jews are allowed to visit the site at certain times but prohibited from praying there.

The violence, coinciding with the Jewish Passover festival as well as the Muslim holy month, has sparked fears of a repeat of last year's events, when similar circumstances sparked an 11-day war that levelled parts of Gaza. On Monday, warning sirens sounded after a rocket was fired into southern Israel from the blockaded enclave, controlled by the Islamist group Hamas, in the first such incident since early January. AP

Explosions near Kabul schools kill 6, injure 24

KABUL

EXPLOSIONS targeting educational institutions killed at least six people, including students, and injured 24 on Tuesday in a mostly Shi'ite neighborhood of Afghanistan's capital city, police said.

The blasts, which occurred in rapid succession, were being investigated and more casualties were feared, according to Kabul police spokesman Khalid Zadran and the city's Emergency Hospital. Several of the wounded were in serious condition and some had been treated and released.

The explosions occurred inside the Abdul Rahim Shaheed High School and near the Mumtaz Education Center several kilometers (miles) away, both in the predominately Shi'ite Muslim neighbourhood of Dasht-e-Barchi. There were no immediate reports of casualties at the Mumtaz Center.

Guards in the narrow street leading to the two-storey high school said they saw 10 casualties. Inside the school, an Associated Press video journalist saw walls splattered with blood, burned notebooks and children's shoes.

The AP spoke to several private guards in the area but they refused to give their names, fearing repercussions from the Taliban security force cordoning off the area.

It appeared a suicide bomber blew himself up inside the sprawling compound, which can house up to 1,000 students, witnesses said. It wasn't immediately clear how many children were in the school at the time of the explosion.

The school is teaching students only until the sixth grade after Taliban rulers went back on a promise to allow all girls to attend school. No one has immediately claimed responsibility. The area has been targeted in the past by Afghanistan's deadly Islamic State affiliate, which reviles Shiite Muslims as heretics. AP

Shanti Sethi, Indian-American Navy veteran, named Harris' defence advisor

WASHINGTON

SHANTI Sethi, a trailblazing Indian-American Navy veteran, has joined US vice-president Kamala Harris's office as her executive secretary and defence advisor, according to a media report.

Sethi, the first Indian-American commander of a major US Navy combat ship, recently joined vice-president's office, Politico news website quoted vice-president's senior advisor Herbie Ziskend as saying.

In her new role, Sethi coordinates National Security Advisor documentation across the Office of the Vice President, according to her LinkedIn profile.

Sethi commanded the guided-missile destroyer, USS Decatur, from December 2010 to May 2012. She was also the first female commander of a US naval vessel to visit India.

When she joined the Navy in 1993, the combat exclusion law was still in effect so she was limited in what she could do. However, when she was an officer, the Exclusion Act was lifted. "I was able to move on to have a career path that was much more open to me because I was going into this very male-dominated environment," Sethi told USA Today in an interview last year.

Sethi was born in Reno, Nevada. Her mom was born in Canada and became a naturalised US citizen at the age of 12, while her father immigrated to the US from India in the early 1960s, the USA Today report said.

The experience of being in the Navy has taught her not to sell herself short or disguise her ambition, it said.

"You can't be what somebody else thinks you should be," Sethi had said.

"You really have to become comfortable in yourself and say, 'This is who I am, and I can succeed as who I am. I don't have to pretend or try to be someone else'." PTI

South Africa flood relief effort falters

DURBAN

SOUTH Africa's government Tuesday sought to reassure a worried public about efforts to help the east coast, where millions remained without water more than a week after deadly storms pounded the region.

Following up a declaration of a national state of disaster, President Cyril Ramaphosa dispatched top ministers to the city of Durban and KwaZulu-Natal (KZN) province, where at least 448 people have now died and 40,000 are homeless.

"These floods are the worst floods that we have ever seen in living memory," Nkosazana Dlamini-Zuma, the minister in charge of disaster management, told a news conference. "The impact of these floods are well beyond the province," she said.

A senior local government official said five more bodies were recovered on Tuesday.

More than 600 schools were damaged by the floods, with 101 rendered inaccessible.

"The preliminary figure is 442 million rand ($30 million), and that only relates to infrastructure. So many things are damaged in schools," said Education Minister Angie Motshekga. AFP

Many fail to meet food item needs

Inflation continues to hit new highs; just in a year, cooking oil prices shot up by over ₹30

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

AS inflation in India continues to hit new highs, consumers are struggling to meet daily needs of food items. In just a year, cooking oil prices have shot up by over ₹30 a liter and in two years the same has nearly doubled. Similarly, other food items such as vegetables, dairy products, fish & meat, among other items, have also seen substantial price hikes.

"Since past few months, a large section of consumers are purchasing fewer items and a noticeable section is discarding items such as cheese and butter. This is a negative sign for the country as well as the retail/FMCG industry," a senior executive of a prominent grocery chain told TNIE.

Retail inflation soared to a 17-month high of 6.95% in March, while wholesale price-based inflation spiked to a 30-year high of 14.55% in the same month. As per the Consumer Price Index (CPI), inflation in 'oils and fats' segment was up 18.79% in March'22, spices 8.5%, vegetables 11.64% , and meat and fish 9.63%.

While this sharp jump in inflation is attributed to the disruption in the global supply chain caused by the Russia-Ukraine war, prices of many food items in India have been going up much before this conflict due to different reasons. In the last one year, every FMCG player implemented more than one price hike across their product range to pass on the rising input cost. This decision seems to have deteriorated consumer sentiments further as their monthly budget was already dilapidated by record rise in petrol, diesel and cooking gas prices.

Debopam Chaudhuri, head, Research and Ratings, TruBoard Partners said that heavy inflationary pressures across major consumables like the entire food basket, clothing and energy needs of an average consumer will force her to reallocate spending away from discretionary to necessities. "It is critical to bring food inflation below 6%," added Chaudhuri.

Q1 GDP TOPS FORECAST, MARCH WEAKNESS RAISES RISKS

China's economy slowed in March as consumption, real estate and exports were hit hard, taking the shine off faster-than-expected first-quarter growth numbers and worsening an outlook already weakened by COVID-19 curbs and the Ukraine war. The biggest near-term challenge for Beijing is the tough new coronavirus rules at a time of heightened geopolitical risks, which have intensified supply and commodity cost pressures, leaving Chinese authorities walking a tight rope as they try to stimulate growth without endangering price stability. GDP expanded by 4.8% in the first quarter from a year earlier, data from the National Bureau of Statistics showed on Monday, beating analysts' expectations for a 4.4% gain and picking up from 4.0% in the fourth quarter. A surprisingly strong start in the first two months of the year improved the headline figures, with GDP up 1.3% in January-March in quarter-on-quarter terms, compared with expectations for a 0.6% rise and a revised 1.5% gain in the previous quarter. Analysts say April data will likely be worse, with lockdowns in commercial center Shanghai and elsewhere dragging on, prompting some to warn of rising recession risks. "Further impacts from lockdowns are imminent, not only because there has been a delay in the delivery of daily necessities, but also because they add uncertainty to services and factory operations that have already impacted the labour market," said Iris Pang, Greater China chief economist at ING.

SAYS IMF TO CONSIDER REQUEST FOR RAPID AID

The International Monetary Fund will consider providing quick financial assistance to debt-burdened Sri Lanka following representations by India, Sri Lanka's finance ministry said on Tuesday.d Aelegation headed by Sri Lanka's Finance Minister Ali Sabry kicked off formal talks with the IMF in Washington on Monday for a program the government hopes will help top up its reserves and attract bridge financing to pay for essential imports of fuel, food and medicines. Shamir Zavahir, an aide to Sabry, said on Twitter that Sri Lanka asked for a loan under the rapid financial instrument (RFI) window, meant for countries needing urgent balance-of-payment support. But the global lender was initially not inclined to grant the request, he said. "The IMF has subsequently informed Minister Sabry that India had also made representations on behalf of Sri Lanka for an RFI," Sri Lanka's finance ministry said in a statement. "It had been communicated that IMF will consider the special request made despite it being outside of the standard circumstances for the issuance of an RFI." Sri Lanka's sovereign dollar-denominated bonds came under pressure again on Tuesday, with longer-dated issues falling as much as 1.4 cents in the dollar to trade at deeply distressed levels of just over 40 cents, Tradeweb data showed.

INDONESIA

MARCH EXPORTS, IMPORTS HIT RECORD HIGHS

Indonesia's exports and imports hit record highs in March amid rising commodity prices due to the impacts of the Ukraine war, helping the resource-rich country book a wider-than-expected trade surplus, statistics bureau data showed on Monday. March exports from Indonesia were worth $26.5 billion, up 44.36% on a yearly basis and beating a 23.83% prediction in a Reuters poll. Imports were up 30.85% to $21.97 billion, more than the 18.30% rise seen in the poll. Southeast Asia's largest economy booked a $4.53 billion surplus last month, the largest since October and far greater than the poll's forecast of a $2.89 billion surplus. Prices of Indonesia's top export products, such as coal, natural gas, palm oil, tin and nickel - which were already high due to recovering demand - surged further in global markets in March following Russia's invasion of Ukraine on February, 24. Most of the increase in coal exports were bought by China, India and the Philippines, but shipments to European countries such as the Netherlands, Italy and Germany also rose, statistics bureau head Margo Yuwono said.

Reliance Jio loses 3.66 mn subscribers in February

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

MUKESH Ambani-led-Reliance Jio continued to lose its subscribers for a third month in a row as it lost nearly 3.6 million users in February 2022.

However, as per the Trai (Telecom Regulatory Authority of India) latest data, the company has improved its active users base to 94.1% in the month. The figure of active subscribers stood at 78% seven months ago. It means the telco has been de-recognising inactive users that has resulted in this positive trend.

As expected, Vodafone Idea also lost 1.52 million subscribers while Bharti Airtel gained 1.59 million new subscribers in February. Overall, total wireless subscribers in the country decreased from 1,145.24 million at the end of January-22 to 1,141.53 million at the end of February-22, registering a monthly decline rate of 0.32%.

All the three private telecom operators- Reliance Jio, Vodafone Idea and Bharti Airtel hiked their prepaid tariff by 20% in November 2021.

Since then, Jio has been losing subscribers. However the company said its repurposing its customer retention efforts aimed to improve the quality of base and to reduce its costs. The telcos are continued to improve their active subscribers base. Bharti Airtel has the maximum proportion 98.08% of its active wireless subscribers (VLR) as against its total wireless subscribers (HLR) on the date of peak VLR in the month of February-22 and MTNL has the minimum proportion of VLR 19.21% of its HLR during the same period.

Loans set to get costlier, as several banks raise MCLR

RAM SAHGAL @Mumbai

CORPORATE, home and auto loan rates are likely to rise, as several banks raised their marginal cost of fund based lending rates (MCLR) in the past few days. MCLR, in effect from April 1, 2016, is the minimum rate below which banks are not permitted to lend. SBI , Bank of Baroda, Kotak Mahindra Bank and Axis Bank are among those which raised rates in the past few days, beginning April 12 . SBI raised its MCLR by 10 basis points or 0.1 percentage point across all tenures, while the other three have raised it by 5 bps, or 0.05 percent across the board. Accordingly, effective April 15, SBI's MCLR of one-year stands at 7.1%, two-year at 7.3% and three-year at 7.4%. Axis Bank's one-year MCLR effective April 18 is at 7.4%, two and three years at 7.5% and 7.55%, respectively.

"One of the main reasons for MCLR increase is a rise in the bulk deposit rate by banks," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda. "Since new retail and home rates are now marked to external benchmarks like the repo or the 10 year G-sec , corporates largely will see their borrowing rates rise ."

Earlier, RBI had directed banks to link all new floating rate retail and MSME loans to external benchmarks effective October 1, 2019 .

Sabnavis added that triple A rated corporates could have the option of raising funds from the corporate bond market at a more attractive rate than MCLR. However, lower-rated corporates would see their cost of funds rise now.

The proportion of loans linked to MCLR have the highest share of 53% as of December 2021, even as proportion of floating rate loans linked to external benchmarks like repo increased to 39% in December from nearly 29% at the end of FY21. The rise in EMIs comes amid retail price inflation rising to 6.95% in March.

CRYPTO EXCHANGES LOOK TO IRON OUT ISSUES WITH BANKS

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

CRYPTO exchanges in India continue to face many challenges apart from a new tax regime -30% tax on crypto income- that came into effect from April 1. All major crypto exchanges have suspended INR deposits for cryptocurrency purchase through the most popular UPI payment option, and it is said that banks too have pulled support from exchanges.

Two weeks ago, an executive from US crypto exchange Coinbase said at a conference that crypto investors could use UPI to transfer funds. Soon after this announcement, the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) said it was not aware of any crypto exchanges using UPI.

After NPCI's statement, apart from Coinbase, many exchanges suspended INR deposits and some banks too have pulled support from exchanges. It is said that trading volumes of the exchanges too are declining- at least 50%- for the past few weeks.

Though many exchanges refused to comment on trading volumes and suspension of rupee deposits through UPI, the biggest crypto exchange WazirX said that currently there has been reluctance from the banking industry to provide crypto exchanges with channels to deposit funds.

"However, we are in conversations with banking partners to iron out the issue at the earliest and help provide our users with other faster and hassle-free depositing methods. The provision of taxes ascertains that crypto is not a shadow industry; hence we hope to see banks to resume operations with the industry soon," said Nischal Shetty, founder, WazirX.

The challenges that crypto investors are facing today can lead to an array of disadvantages for the entire system. It can also lead to traders transacting on P2P exchanges instead of the Indian exchanges that are KYC compliant, he added.

Hiring sees y-o-y growth in March, attrition rates may continue to go up

SAMIKSHA GOEL @New Delhi

HIRING demand has witnessed the highest year-on-year growth of 6% in March 2022, according to the Monster Employment Index(MEI) released on Tuesday.

Attrition has also been on the rise and could be one of the reasons for the dynamism in the hiring activity.

Even as a marginal dip of 2.4% was witnessed in month-on-month hiring activity, owing to appraisal season, the Index remained positive from an annual perspective as recruitment activity continued across a broad range of sectors.

Online recruitment activity exceeded the year-ago level in March in 11 out of the 13 cities monitored by the index, with all metros registering a double-digit growth on an annual basis.

The hiring demand was driven by Banking/Financial Services and Insurance (up 37%) followed by Telecom/ISP (up 17%) and Production and Manufacturing (up 16%).

The report shows more and more organisations have hired top management level employees (up 34%) followed by mid-senior level (up 22%), intermediate level (up 20%) and senior-level (up 13%). Entry-level jobs also witnessed a growth of 8% on the back of campus hiring.

Rising attrition rate

At the same time, another report by Michael Page India showed 86% of employees will be looking for new career prospects over the next six months.

The report, with data-backed insights drawn from a survey of 3,069 respondents, says that across all industries, levels of seniority, and age groups, a clear majority has indicated this major talent migration will continue.

While salaries, bonuses, and rewards are still top attraction motivators, the survey shows a big swing towards non-monetary motivators.

According to the report, a significant 61% of respondents in India were willing to accept a lower salary for better work-life balance, overall well-being, and happiness.

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

HEAVY foreign investor cash selling in the last hour of trade amid reports of escalation of Russian-Ukrainian hostilities and its impact on energy and food prices caused an almost vertical drop in the Nifty and the Sensex , which fell one and a quarter percent each.

The Nifty closed down 215 points at 16,958.65 and the Sensex dipped 703.59 points to 56,463.15 . The Nifty gave up 317 points from the day's high as FIIs sold shares worth a provisional ₹5871.69 crore .

The HDFC twins continued their drag on the benchmark indices, with the mortgage lender shedding 6.3% to close at ₹2121.75 and HDFC Bank declining 4.3% at ₹1,335 apiece. Infosys, which has a substantial index weight, too pulled the index down , tanking 3.48% to ₹1,565.

What saved the market from a steeper fall was Reliance's 3.8% rally to ₹2,640.80 amid the broader market rout. Reports of it being added to the Morgan Stanley Global Emerging Markets Focus List lent heft to the stock.

NSDL data shows FIIs have sold Indian shares worth $550 million. In FY22, they sold shares worth $18.5 billion .

Data shows immediate range for Nifty at 16700-17200 with bias for the downside .Fear gauge India Vix rose by 2.27% to 19.78 . A reading above 20 signals greater uncertainty .

OMCs may further hike petrol, diesel prices

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

OIL marketing companies (OMCs) may report losses in the January-March 2022 quarter for holding petrol and diesel prices despite a rise in cost of crude oil in the international market, says a Fitch report.

According to the report, released on Tuesday, to make up the loss fuel retailers will have to further hike the prices of petrol and diesel to reach pre-November levels. "Retail fuel prices have subsequently been raised by only around ₹11, implying further price hikes may be required for marketing margins to reach pre-November levels, and early FY23 marketing margins may also be under pressure," reads the report.

OMCs haven't changed the price of transport fuel for nearly four months (Nov 2021-March 2022). The report said it is one of the longest retail price freezes in recent years, despite reference crude oil prices rising by nearly $27 a barrel (₹13/litre) during the period, which may lead to marketing losses for the OMCs in the Q4FY22. The rating agency believes robust core refining margins and windfall inventory gains should mitigate potential marketing losses in the near term, and the OMCs may see opportunities to recoup some of the losses in periods of falling oil prices. However, if crude oil prices are sustained beyond Fitch's base-case assumptions, then record-high retail fuel prices may limit the extent to which the changes are passed on, pressuring OMCs' credit metrics.

IMF pegs 8.2% growth for India in 2022

THE International Monetary Fund on Tuesday projected a "fairly robust" growth of 8.2% for India in 2022, making it the fastest-growing major economy in the world, almost twice faster than China's 4.4 per cent.

The global growth has been projected at 3.6% in 2022, down from 6.1% in 2021, the IMF said in its annual World Economic Outlook report released here. It has also lowered India's growth projection by 0.8 percentage points for 2022 from its previous forecast for the same period last year. In 2021, India registered a growth rate of 8.9%.

By 2023, India is estimated to grow at 6.9%, the IMF said.

The downgrade in the 2023 growth projection for India is partly reflective of the war in Ukraine that has resulted in high energy and food prices, slowing down the growth momentum.

Gatlin ambassador for TCS World 10k Bengaluru

Olympic and World Championships gold medallist sprinter Justin Gatlin was on Tuesday named as the brand ambassador for the 14th Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) World 10K Bengaluru to be held on May 15. Gatlin won the 2004 Olympic 100m race in Athens and is also a four-time World Athletics Championships gold medallist.

Greco-Roman wrestlers target Asiad after success at Asian C'ships

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

GOOD omen. That's how the Indian contingent felt after securing three bronze medals at the Asian Wrestling Championships in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia. Good omen, considering Greco-Roman wrestling was never a happy hunting ground in the world arena. In the continent, however, India have been showing traces of improvement. With a busy schedule ahead this year, the team management is indeed content beginning their campaign on a positive note.

Sunil Kumar (87kg), Neeraj (63kg) and Arjun Halakurki (55kg) finished on the podium giving the Greco-Roman contingent a big hope of surpassing their previous best tally (5 medals - 1 gold and 4 bronze) achieved in the 2020 edition in New Delhi. It's the second medal for both Sunil and Arjun at the continental event — the former had won gold in the 2020 edition and the latter had bagged bronze in the same year. The remaining five Greco-Roman wrestlers from the country will be in action on Wednesday. Head coach Hargobind Singh considers it a positive sign, especially with big events lined up. "We can better our 2020 tally as Harpreet Singh (82kg), Sachin Sehrawat (67kg) and Gyanender (60kg) have a good chance of winning medals on Wednesday. This performance is a good sign as it can act as morale booster for wrestlers for the 2022 Asian Games," the coach told this daily from the competition venue. Arjun and Neeraj compete in non-Olympic weight categories but the coach affirmed that the duo will compete in the Olympic weight categories during the selection trials for the Asiad. "Arjun will move to 60kg while Neeraj will compete in 67kg during the trials," he added.

The 23-year-old Arjun from Karnataka is also eyeing a place in the Indian team for the Asian Games. "The first target is Asiad in Hangzhou, China. The 2024 Paris Olympics is the ultimate goal as not many wrestlers from Karnakata have represented the country in the quadrennial event," Arjun said. He started wrestling watching his father Durgappa compete during local dangals. "It was only after reaching government hostels I learnt about age categories and other basics of wrestling." Such was the state of affairs in Arjun's family that his father was killed in a road accident while hunting for a wild rabbit in his bid to feed those dependent on him.

Neeraj, who hails from Juan village of Sonepat (Haryana), was a freestyle wrestler when he started. He had even clinched a bronze medal in the Asian Championships (cadets) before switching style. "I changed the style after one of wrestlers from my akhada won an international medal," he said. His father and grandfather were also wrestlers. "Both are technically sound wrestlers but need to move to Olympic weight categories and realise their full potential. Neeraj needs to be more explosive while attempting to win points. They can qualify for the Olympics but the preparations should start now," said former national Greco-Roman coach Kuldeep Singh.

Du good hero after Virat zero

Skipper Du Plessis' big hand propels Bangalore while Kohli's struggles with the bat continue

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

FAF du Plessis produced a rescue act to proper Royal Challengers Bangalore even as Virat Kohli's batting woes continued, the latter being dismissed for a first-ball duck for only the fourth time in his IPL career. Having won the toss, the Lucknow Super Giants made early inroads into RCB's batting at the DY Patil Stadium.

Thankfully for the franchise, the man who took over the reins from Kohli, Du Plessis, played a captain's knock. His 64-ball 96 proved pivotal, but it exacerbated Kohli's struggles so far this season. Thanks to Du Plessis' gritty knock, RCB won by 18 runs.

Kohli's numbers in this competition speak for themselves. However, this season has been a different story for him and his one-ball stay was among the biggest talking points besides Faf's tempered knock.

Faf du Plessis | SPORTZPICS

Relinquishing captaincy was expected to free up 'Kohli the batter', but given the standards he has set for himself, the 33-year-old is yet to click. Luckily for RCB, it hasn't caused much damage as those around are producing the goods. After opener Anuj Rawat fell cheaply to Dushmantha Chameera in the first over, Kohli was called into action. After his unbeaten 41 against Punjab Kings in their opening game, he has made scores of 12, 5, 48, 1, and 12 in the following games. Here, he played the ball straight to Deepak Hooda at backward point, and it was Kohli's first golden duck since 2017. By the time the first over was done from Chameera, the Sri Lankan pacer was on a hat-trick and the psychological edge Lucknow got from dismissing Kohli cheaply could not be understated.

As Faf looked on, wickets kept tumbling at the other end and Glen Maxwell's (23 off 11 balls) cameo was brought to an end thanks to a stunning fielding effort from Jason Holder while young Suyash Prabhudessai (10) paid the price for an indecisive shot to leave RCB at 62 for 4. It was down to the South African to hold the innings together and the skipper found an ally in Shahbaz Ahmed as the two went around rebuilding RCB's innings. The 37-year-old anchored RCB's innings admirably, as they raced away to 181/6 from 20 overs.

In reply, Lucknow lost wickets at regular intervals. Captain KL Rahul (30) and Krunal Pandya (42) could not convert their good starts to big scores and Lucknow fell short of the target by 19 runs.

Brief scores: RCB 181/6 in 20 ovs (Du Plessis 96, Chameera 2/31, Holder 2/25) bt LSG 163/8 in 20 ovs (Krunal 42 Rahul 30; Hazlewood 4/25).

TODAY'S MATCH

Punjab, Delhi seek consistency

Punjab Kings will look for consistency against Delhi Capitals, a team that's still searching for their best XI. A look at Wednesday's fixture...

KINGS' DEATH OVERS BATTING

Thanks to the team composition and their ethos, Punjab have lost at least five wickets but because of a lack of firepower, they don't have the muscle to keep going at the death. End result? A failure to utilise this phase of the innings properly. It has already cost them a few matches.

CAPITALS' MIDDLE-ORDER

Punjab's frontline bowlers, especially with Odean Smith continuing to struggle with line and length, can be got at. For that to happen, though, Delhi's middle-order has to come out of its shell. Apart from captain Rishabh Pant, Delhi's batters have not showed any form whatsoever. In fact, Axar Patel is their fourth leading run-scorer with 78.

Pride, China tickets at stake in Univ Games

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

THE participation of Tokyo Olympians Srihari Nataraj (swimming) and Manu Bhaker (shooting) in the upcoming Khelo India University Games in Bengaluru, starting April 24, will add sheen to the multi-sports event. Also, top athletes like Dutee Chand (athletics) and Madhu Vedwan (archery) will feature in the competition. Most of the disciplines are going to be held at the Jain University facility in the city.

Besides the 275 gold medals on offer, athletes from 189 universities will also view the Games as an opportunity to to qualify for the World University Games, scheduled in Chengdu (China) from June 26. However, it is interesting to note that with the rise in Covid-19 cases in China, some of the countries, including Britain and New Zealand have already pulled out.

"KIUG is also going to serve as the qualifiers for the World University Games. As of today, we have the information that the World (University) Games is scheduled to be held in China. We have to go through the process. Most of the kids from different universities across the country are surely going to compete here in the Games. This KIUG will have some good quality competition in all sports," said Shankar UV, Director of Sports, Jain University.

However, Karnataka government's ambitious project to make the second edition of KIUG as Green Games has hit a stumbling block. "There were plans to give no plastic bottles to athletes, but we are having some teething issues as the NADA guys want fresh bottled water. The discussions are still on regarding this. We may have to provide plastic bottled water to the athletes when they are asked to go for a dope test," added Shankar, who also showed the visiting journalists some sporting facilities in the campus on Tuesday.

The Jain University, including the Sports School, will host 16 of the 20 events. Weightlifting and wrestling will be played at Sprintoor while the Colloseum will host Judo, Kabaddi and Volleyball. Around 3200 athletes and officials will reside in the different hostels in the university in a three-bedded room facility. The Sports School, who will housing around 250 players, will host football, table tennis, tennis, and badminton.

Barbie ban

On April 20, 2018, a Mexican court barred the sales of controversial Frida Kahlo Barbie doll ruling that members of her family own the sole rights to her image

THE ISSUE

Apart from image rights, Kahlo's family members were also concerned about the appearance of the doll. They felt that the doll's complexion was too light and accessorised with Mexican jewellery

INSPIRING WOMEN SERIES

Manufacturer Mattel included a Kahlo doll in an inaugural series meant to coincide with International Women's Day in the series called 'Inspiring Women'

PEOPLE'S OPINION

The run-of-the-mill doll version failed, for example, to depict the iconic unibrow and other body hair which were integral parts of Kahlo's image

KNOW YOUR CITY

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

THE QUIZ WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

Send answers to bengalurucityexpress@gmail.com with the subject line 'Know Your City Quiz'

Correct answers and names of first three respondents with right answers will be featured in CE on Thursday.

1. There are numerous temples dedicated to Maramma in and around Bengaluru. Many of them came up during the end of the 19th century, particularly after the outbreak of 'Great Plague' of 1898 which took away a quarter of the city's population. Which prominent residential area in Bengaluru is the well-known 'Circle Maramma Temple' located?

2. Temples dedicated to Lord Ayyappa originated relatively recently in the city. It was in 1967 that the first Ayyappa temple in Bengaluru (perhaps the first one outside Kerala) was installed and built. This well-known temple is located near an airforce station on the outskirts towards the west of Bengaluru. Name the location.

3. Of all the modern temples in Bengaluru, the ISKCON temple is one of the largest temple complexes in the city. The temple housed on a hillock in one of the largest extensions in the city was inaugurated in 1997 by Shankar Dayal Sharma, the then president of India and is one of the primary tourist destinations in the city. Name the location.

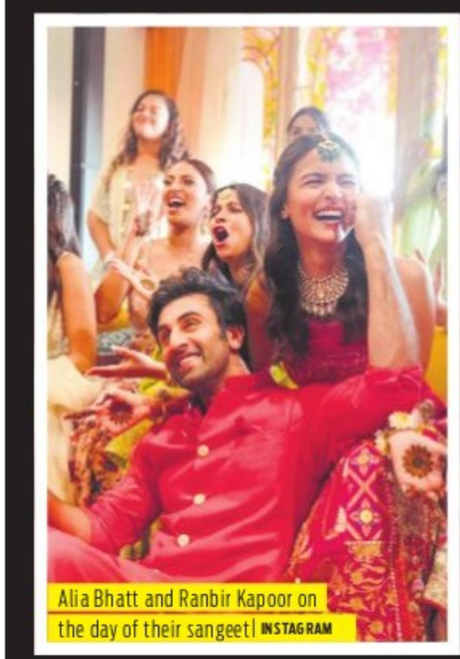
MATCH MADE AT HOME

While celebs like Alia & Ranbir Kapoor and Rhea Kapoor & Karan Boolani are opting for weddings at home, many B'lureans too are following suit



Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor on the day of their sangeet| INSTAGRAM

I always wanted a small wedding with just my friends and family. Both my husband and I are not for the big fat Indian wedding. It is important for us to celebrate with people who matter the most to us

Shruti Kedia, multimedia professional

MONIKA MONALISA

ALIA Bhatt's caption for her dreamy wedding pictures with Ranbir Kapoor was, "...surrounded by our family and friends, at home. in our favourite spot – the balcony we've spent the last 5 years of our relationship - we got married. (sic)" Director-producer Rhea Kapoor had also mentioned that she always wanted to get married in her living room and that's what she did. While tinseltown celebrities are inclining towards having a home wedding, many people in Bengaluru too are going for intimate weddings post Covid.

Take, for instance, Ipshita Gupta, who had the option to pick any destination and venue for her wedding. She chose to tie the knot, in December 2021, at her husband's place in Yelahanka. "I got married in the garden of my current home," she smiles. Gupta, a media professional, says she and her husband always wanted to have an intimate wedding.

One of the primary reasons why couples usually go for a grand venue is for its cinematic and manicured location and those dreamy wedding pictures. However, Gupta says just because it is a home wedding, it doesn't have to lack aesthetics. "We had friends who supported us. A friend, who is an art producer, helped us with the decor," says Gupta, adding that creating memories with their set of friends and family who were present at the event was the main agenda for them.

Even if everyone is not inclined towards home weddings, couples are preferring smaller celebrations. Shruti Kedia, who currently resides in the USA, had a court wedding in the States with only seven friends in attendance, However, the couple always wanted to come down to India to celebrate it with family. "I always wanted a small wedding and celebration with just my friends and family. Both my husband and I are not for the big fat Indian wedding. It is important for us to celebrate with people who matter the most to us," says Kedia, who had a small ceremony at ITC Windsor with just a limited number of guests.

Vithika Agarwal, who co-partners Divya Vithika Wedding Planners along with Divya Chauhan, says even people who are opting for intimate weddings are opening up their farmhouses for 'cozy' weddings. "Earlier you would hold a wedding at a hall or a five-star hotel but now there are many small venues which spring up on the outskirts of the city . They are getting popular too because, in comparison to the rest of the country, Bengaluru has the best weather. And those who come here want that greenery and outdoor experience," explains Agarwal, who was also crowned Miss India Asia Pacific 1998.

Agrees Nilima Dileepan, who runs a wedding planning agency With Love, Nilma. "Many couples go for smaller weddings at farmhouses or smaller cozy venues, but they keep the smaller ceremonies at home," she adds.

Vineeta Singh, co-founder and CEO of SUGAR Cosmetics, has made a place for herself in the beauty and cosmetics industry. The passionate entrepreneur opens up to CE about her journey

Shades of Beauty

We realised that none of the beauty brands catered to the Indian skin tone or was favourable to the Indian climate. That is when I decided to enter this space

Vineeta Singh, CEO, SUGAR Cosmetics

SHREYA VERONICA

FOR long, the concept of 'beauty for all' seemed far-fetched. At a time when leading brands catered primarily to lighter skin tones and offered products that could barely stand the test of the Indian weather, SUGAR Cosmetics emerged as a market disruptor. Offering shades designed for the Indian skin tone, the brand is anchored on the idea of making beauty products that can brave rain or shine. The brain behind it, Vineeta Singh, has made her presence felt in just seven years of launching the brand. While her big dream is to take her venture international, she admits that surviving in a highly competitive industry is no child's play.

Singh, who has a flagship store in Bengaluru, has always been passionate about building a business by women and for women, as the core audience. Which is why she declined a plush ₹1 crore job offer to pursue her dream of becoming an entrepreneur. "I remember making many women-centric business plans on paper while studying, knowing that it was something I wanted to pursue. Fast forward to 2012, we launched a subscription service that offered women an assortment of beauty products every month, and a number of them shared their preferences with us. This made us realise that none of the brands catered to the Indian skin tone or was favourable to the Indian climate. That is when I decided to enter this space," she says.

About the brand's name, she explains that during a brainstorming session, one of the team members suggested the name 'sugar', explaining that applying makeup products gives you a sugar rush minus the calories.

The Indian beauty industry has seen remarkable growth over the past few decades. Beauty brands are now more in tune with their consumers, they are more focused on their needs. "Gen Z and millennials want products that not only make them look beautiful, but also reflect their personality. For them, makeup is a form of self-expression and this is what the industries are focussing on," she says.

The challenges are several. Managing the credit cycle is key to keeping the working capital cycle to a bare minimum, which in turn ensures efficient capital use and rotation is something Singh has learnt over time. "We had little funding when we had started out and that was really tough – I recall times when we were out of stock and yet couldn't order a new batch of products because we just didn't have the money. Today we have a team that monitors this every day and intervenes to help our trade partners ease our cash flows," she says.

As Singh puts it, "I trusted my instincts on choosing the life I wanted for myself, and the rest, as you know, just followed."

FIT BIT

BADDHA PARIVRTTA MALASANA

(BOUND REVOLVED GARLAND POSE)

The arms play an important role, and the trick to achieving this bind is to consciously lift the spine, creating space for the shoulders. When this space at the upper and middle back is created, the chest opens to support the arms to go long and stretch behind the back to create this lock or loop, forming the shape of a garland. With increased energy, the cells and nerves are stimulated and toned.

STEPS

- Begin in Uttanasana. Keep your feet outwards. Inhale, gently lift your head up. Exhale, come to Garland Pose.
- Exhale completely, keep pushing the hips down. Lengthen the spine, engage your core, pelvis, and upper abdomen.
- Inhale, stretch out your left hand, place it on your side. Lift your right arm up and stretch the shoulders bringing a gentle twist to the upper body. Gaze at your right arm. Stay here for about 2-3 breaths.
- Breathing deeply, rotate your left shoulders and take your left arm around the left thigh, knee and leg. Inhaling deeply, lean forward, twisting the torso and hug your left knee, keeping your armpit close to your inner left knee.
- Exhale, take the left arm around, and flex the left wrist to bring the left palm facing outside.
- Take the right arm from behind, rotate your shoulders; exhale, grab the left wrists. Stay here for 3-4 breaths.
- Bring awareness towards your breath, body and mind.
- Exhale and release the pose slowly. Take a few breaths and relax. Repeat and follow the instructions on the other side.

BENEFITS

- Strengthens core, pelvic floor, feet, ankles, calves and knees.
- Allows the spine and hip joints to gain more flexibility and mobility.
- Aligns the shoulders, hips, and knees to the ankles.
- Blocked energies are released.
- Reduces stress, activates spine.
- Stimulates abdominal organs.
- Gives a supply of fresh blood.
- Stimulates the respiratory, reproductive, & circulatory system.
- Helps in diabetes, infertility menopause, or thyroid imbalance.

LIMITATIONS

- People suffering from injuries in shoulders, arms, chest, hips, knees and ankles, physical strength and weak body, avoid this.
- Pregnant and postnatal women should avoid it.

Pranay Patil

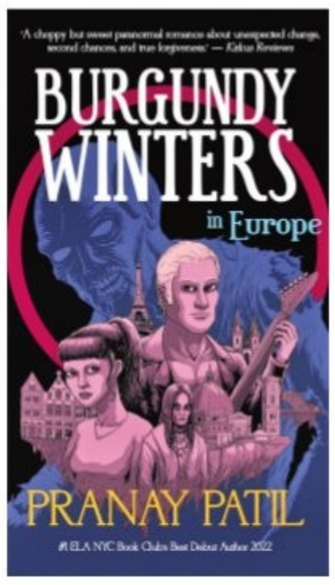
GIVING THE DOPE

Author and social activist Pranay Patil's new book addresses the problem of drug overdose and its impact on youngsters

SANATH PRASAD

IT was definitely disheartening to see the devastation the pandemic caused to mankind in the last two years. While some volunteered for Covid-19 relief work, some were only able to see the tragedy unfold before them, helplessly. Pranay Patil, an educationist and social activist who was born in Bengaluru, saw some of his friends succumb to Covid-19 and some hospitalised. With much tragedy and anxiety around him, Patil was just about to consult a psychiatrist, when he decided writing was the best form of catharsis. "I was suffering from survivor's guilt after seeing a lot of people in my close circle succumbing to the virus. The only way I discovered to get rid of this was by writing and that is how my book came about," he says about his book, Burgundy Winters: In Europe, published by UK-based publisher Crystal Peake.

"I started working on this book during the first lockdown in March 2020 and took a year to complete," says Patil, who is launching the book in Bengaluru at Higginbothams on May 7. The book will be launched by senior journalist Rajdeep Sardesai and columnist Pooja Bedi.



As a first-time author, Patil, in fact, wanted to write the book with the motive of helping children infected with HIV. "The revenue generated from the sales of this book will be used for helping HIV infected kids in Belagavi. I never had the passion to write a book but the need to support HIV infected children and other marginalised groups is what drove me to write this book. I felt very helpless due to the lockdown and was unable to continue my social work. The only way I could help myself is by writing," says the 35-year-old.

Burgundy Winters: In Europe is partly fiction and partly inspired by true events. Patil pursued engineering in Germany and his extensive travel around Europe makes a mark in this new book. The story is centred around American rockstar Jace Tanner who comes face-to-face with the reality of his actions. After a fatal cocaine overdose of his best friend, Tanner realises that his reckless actions have very real consequences. He is later admitted to rehab and leaves the centre on an optimistic note, only to meet Yasmine Belmont where the duo have panoramic experiences. What happens next, forms the crux of the story. "While the motive is to raise funds for social work, the book is also an attempt to address the drug menace that is ruining youngsters in India and across different countries. Some of the instances and characters are connected to my real-life experiences. For example, a mutual friend of mine actually died due to overdose in Germany," says Patil, who runs an education society in Belagavi.

Not just Burgundy Winters: In Europe, Patil is now ready to take on many such social issues to raise awareness for the welfare of the people. "If writing is a significant medium to address some social issues that are plaguing society, I am ready to write many more books," says Patil.

BEING FUNNY IS NO JOKING MATTER

WHAT makes a joke? Is it based on a certain formula? When I met actor and comedian John Cleese of Monty Python, A Fish Called Wanda and Fawlty Towers fame, he said, "Two different frames brought together creates humour." His memoir So, Anyway… is everything one would expect — smart, thoughtful, provocative and above all funny. The genre of comedian-memoirs has been around for a long time. Fred Allen's Treadmill To Oblivion, Lenny Bruce's How To Talk Dirty And Influence People, Nora Ephron's I Feel Bad About My Neck and Tina Fey's Bossypants are some of the funniest books by the funniest people.

Another insight that Cleese gave was that comedians are most funny when they speak in a deadpan, mechanical manner. In spoken humour, the trick to being humorous is to know when not to repeat yourself, when not to overkill a joke, when to be subtle and when to leave things unsaid. You should know when a joke is not working, and if it isn't, the most disastrous thing you can do is try and milk it by repeating it again and again.

But what about humour in writing? Is it more difficult to be humorous in print than through the spoken word or in a video or film? My earliest encounter with written humour was through the column "Offbase" (formerly known as "Humour in Uniform") in the Reader's Digest. The column has appeared for over half a century, with more than 3,500 jokes, quotes, and funny stories submitted by more than a million readers.

In my college days, everyone read P G Wodehouse, but for Indian humour, alas, we had nothing comparable. All the comedy was in our movies. R K Narayan's Malgudi Days and Swami and Friends are timeless classics while currently Twinkle Khanna is the most prominent Indian woman writer of humour with her Mrs Funnybones. Post college, I read a lot of Dave Barry and Erma Bombeck. Barry defines a sense of humour as "A measurement of the extent to which we realise that we are trapped in a world almost totally devoid of reason. Laughter is how we express the anxiety we feel at this knowledge." His latest Lessons from Lucy about the seven essential life lessons he learnt from his rescue dog is more of a self-help book and yet funny.

A cult novel that gripped many Indians like me was Joseph Heller's biting, anti-war satire Catch-22. Kurt Vonnegut, Kingsley Amis, Tom Sharpe and Woody Allen (the books not the movies) were the other modern satirists who tickled my funny bone. One of the lesser-known classics in humour that I recently discovered is A Confederacy of Dunces by JK Toole. The book centres on Ignatius Reilly who does odd jobs to make a living and is nothing short of an asshole (also an obese slob who is constantly farting). You will not only end up laughing at the character but also maybe at yourself too!

My current favourite is David Sedaris who has written 11 bestsellers. If the size of the audience is anything to go by, then his book release and signings held in concert halls indicate that he is nothing short of a rock star. He also has his own Masterclass (masterclass.com). His latest collection of essays The Best of Me is already a bestseller, but he doesn't take it or himself too seriously when he says that can you add letters to Me in the title so that the book becomes The Best of Mexico, Mediocrity, or Meningitis!

Jay Bhattacharjee delves into India's 'existential threats'

In the latest book, Resurgent Bharat and Other Issues — An Anthology of Essays by Jay Bhattacharjee, the author delved into a whole spectrum of issues that confront India, from Indian civilisation, politics, military and strategic issues, the forces acting against the Republic from within, the shenanigans of the Lutyens Zone operators, the worrying state of the judiciary and satire. Without mincing words, the essays, written with historical references and parallels, and unwaveringly sticking to the nationalistic perspective, are a wake-up call to all those of us who wish to see India reinventing itself, with its ancient glory and heritage restored. — IANS

'I HAVE NEVER REPEATED A GENRE, BUT ABBABBA IS AN EXCEPTION'

CE FEATURES

KM Chaitanya

KM Chaitanya is busy with the post-production work of Abbabba. The film, which is slated to release in May, will be sent to the censor board in the next 10 days. "The production house is currently in talks with the distributors, and they will take a call on the release date," says the director, who shared a few stills from the film.

Abbabba, starring Likith Shetty and Amrutha Iyengar, is the second comedy-drama from Chaitanya. "My last comedy film (Parari) was made in 2013. I have never repeated a genre after that, but this film is an exception. The subject dared me to go back to try the genre again," shares Chaitanya. However, the director finds the comedy genre the toughest among all other genres. "It is not easy to pull off a comedy-drama. But when I heard the story, I thought it would work. The film has all elements of a fun entertainer," he says.

Deepak Alexander, a popular ad musician, who worked with Lijo Jose in Jallikattu, scores the music for this Kannada film. Manohar Joshi is the cinematographer of Abbabba. Vishwas Kashyap is the art director and has K L Rajashekar penning dialogues. Ann Augustine, an established actor in Malayalam, is making her debut as a producer with this Kannada film and she is joined by Vijay Babu and Vivek Thomas, who are backing the films under Miramar Films and Friday Films banner.

Likith Shetty and Amrutha Iyengar were previously seen together in Family Pack, and the two have teamed up again for Abbabba. The film's supporting cast includes AjayRaj, Thandav, Dhanu Achar, Vijay Chendoor, Sharath Lohitashwa, and Avinash.

Huma to play chef in the biopic Tarla

CE FEATURES

HUMA Qureshi will be playing the role of India's first home chef Tarla Dalal in the upcoming biopic Tarla. Directed by Piyush Gupta, who has written films like Dangal and Chhichore, the film is produced by Ronnie Screwvala, Ashwiny Iyer Tiwari, and Nitesh Tiwari. Gautam Ved has co-written the film with Piyush.

Tarla Dalal was an Indian food writer, chef, and host of cooking shows. She was the first Indian to be awarded a Padmashree in the culinary skills category in 2007. This is the first time the Hindi film industry will be depicting the true-life story of a chef on screen. "I am delighted to have the opportunity to illustrate Tarla Dalal's life on screen. Being a foodie myself, the intention is to make this film a treat for all food lovers to gorge on," said Piyush.

While talking about the late chef and her decision to make a film on Tarla's life, producer Ashwiny Iyer Tiwari said, "Tarla's story is a lot more than her being an iconic chef. It's a story about a working mother who single-handedly changed the face of vegetarian cooking in India and paved the way for many such home cooks and startups."

Actor Huma Qureshi spoke about how Tarla's recipes bring back memories of her childhood. "Tarla Dalal reminds me of my childhood. My mom had a copy of her book in the kitchen and would often try many of her recipes for my school tiffin. I also remember the time when I helped mom make Tarla's homemade mango ice cream," she said.

Pooja Hegde

Pooja Hegde: I want to do films that make women feel represented

AVINASH RAMACHANDRAN

MYSSKIN'S Mugamoodi had all the makings of a dream debut for the-then 22-year-old Pooja Hegde. The hero, Jiiva, had just delivered a blockbuster in Ko, and was fresh off the success of an even bigger hit, Nanban. Director Mysskin was also coming off the back of hits like Anjathey and Yuddham Sei. Ahead of the film's release, the song, 'Vaaya moodi summa iru da', featuring Pooja and Jiiva, was all the rage. But then, when the film got released…

A decade since, Pooja has come back with Beast that too had all the makings of a blockbuster return. The film stars Vijay, one of India's biggest superstars. Director Nelson had created a unique path for Tamil cinema with films like Kolamaavu Kokila and Doctor. Ahead of the film's release, the song, 'Arabic Kuthu' has been all the rage. Unlike her first brush in Tamil cinema, this time around, Pooja is not a newbie… She is already a star. And yet, she remembers feeling nervous about her return to the industry where it all began for her. "I owe a lot to this film industry that turned me into an actor. My biggest goal has always been to entertain people and I have a strong desire to gain the love of the audience. With Beast, I hope boxes get ticked," says Pooja.

While Beast might be her first Tamil film in a decade, Pooja has already made her mark in Telugu and Hindi cinema. She has starred in films opposite the likes of Allu Arjun, Akshay Kumar, Jr NTR, Mahesh Babu, and Prabhas. The heroine is also gearing up for films with Chiranjeevi and Ranveer Singh, and that makes her one of the busiest pan-Indian actors right now. "It is a gift to be accepted by audiences across languages," says a grateful Pooja. "When you speak someone's language, you can connect with people; it makes them feel like you are their own."

This relatability usually grows multifold when an actor does comedy. Pooja is no stranger to the comedy genre having been part of the Housefull series, one of Indian cinema's most successful comic franchises. Beast is from director Nelson, who has already proved his credentials in this genre. "Comedy is a difficult genre. While Housefull had more slapstick humour, in Beast, it is the situations that create humour, because the actors are usually saying their dialogues with a straight face. To be successful in this genre, it is important that the writing and casting be on point," says Pooja, who adds that the casting of Beast fascinated her. "I think Nelson sir casts people who are interesting. In fact, I asked him where he found those actors, and he shared that they are all his friends. They were all a lot of fun."

The actor, who recently featured in Vijay's underwhelming film, Beast, speaks about facing setbacks and future plans

And then, of course, there was the opportunity of working with Vijay. "It was high on my list of priorities. Also, the dark comedy space is a niche genre that very few people have the talent to handle. After watching Kolamaavu Kokila and Doctor, I decided that Nelson sir had it in him," says this actor, who's happy that her films have offered her different characters, including an entrepreneur, a standup comic, and an ill-fated doctor. "My acting process depends more on the role and writing rather than the language of the film. Initially, I thought certain reactions expected of me were a bit too dramatic, but then seeing some people actually behave that way made me realise that there is no one right way to react," says Pooja.

While on reacting to situations, how did Pooja deal with her false starts? Admitting that it was a lonely ride back to the limelight after suffering setbacks in the form of Mugamoodi and Mohenjodaro, Pooja says, "My journey wasn't about delivering one big hit and then, smooth sailing from then on. After the release of my first film, I didn't get any work for a year. Then, I had a two-year contract for Mohenjodaro, and that meant that three years of my career were over without giving my career any great thrusts. It was a roller-coaster ride. All that kept me going was my family… They are my cheerleaders. I just remembered not to give up."

Pooja hopes to do films that do better by their women. "Young girls should see women in cinema as role-models, and I want to do films that make such girls feel represented," says Pooja, who clarifies that in the money-minded world of cinema, heroines cannot expect to get author-backed roles in every film. "It is said that the harder we work, the luckier we get. So, I retain the hope that I will get stronger characters, but all I can do is work hard and be strong. The best way to battle negativity is to be successful."
